Court Rules on Harbor Writ

CLERK MUST SIGN ORDER ON ELECTION

Appellate Judges Fail to Render Decision Whether Measure Constitutional

NEW COURSE REQUIRED

Conference Will Be Held In Effort to Determine Method to Be Followed

LEAVING the chief issue unsettled, a decision of the district court of appeals in the mandamus proceedings brought by the county against County Clerk J. M. Backs, to test the harbor bond act, has been received by District Attorney A. P. Nelson, he announced today.

The decision grants the writ of mandamus asked by the county and directs Backs to sign the ordinance passed by the county supervisors, fixing the bond election for June 10. It fails to rule on the question of whether the harbor act is constitutional and whether its provisions apply to Newport Harbor, the settlement of which points was the sole issue of the proceedings.

Conference is Scheduled

A new method of procedure must now be sought by the county to determine the pending questions, before the harbor election is held, Nelson intimated today. He announced that he and L. A. West, counsel for Backs in the mandamus proceedings, would confer with the county supervisors this afternoon.

A delegation of harbor boosters was also expected to come before the board in connection with the matter, he said.

Nelson was non-committal as to the probable course that would be pursued, but indicated that it might be necessary to precipitate the test by injunctive proceedings after the harbor election is called.

The appeal court decision merely stated that the state law makes it the duty of the county clerk to sign and seal proceedings of the supervisors when they are ordered published. He cannot dispute the legality of the actions which they have taken, upon constitutional or other legal grounds, the decision stated.

The text of the decision follows: "The petitioner prays for a writ of mandamus directing the county clerk, as ex-officio clerk of the board of supervisors of Orange county, to attest an ordinance calling a special election for the purpose of determining whether or not certain bonds shall be issued for harbor improvements. This he has refused to do upon a number of grounds involving the constitutionality and legality of the issuance of the bonds, if they should be voted.

"Section 4038 of the political code makes it the duty of the clerk to authenticate with his signature and the seal of the board the proceedings of the board whenever they shall have been ordered published. This is purely a ministerial duty, the performance of which can be made contingent upon no other consideration than the order of the board of which he is ex-officio clerk. He cannot dispute the legality of the actions which they have taken upon constitutional or other legal grounds. Marin Municipal Water District v. Dodge, 173 Cal. 724, 158 Pac. 187; City of Los Angeles v. Lynde, 157 Cal. 30, 103 Pac. 218; Tholts v. Bybee, 24 Cal. App. 226, 167 Pac. 166.

"The writ is granted.

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER FOR REPORTING FORSAKES PAPER TO SELL ICE CREAM

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, May 4.—William Burke Miller, whose reporting of the Floyd Collins case in the Louisville Courier-Journal won him the 1925 Pulitzer award of $1000 for the year's best example of reporting, just announced, has forsaken journalism for the ice cream business, it was learned today. Miller, who is in his early 20's, also received a bonus of $1000 from his paper. He left the paper soon after the Collins case ended and now is an ice cream dealer in Florida.

Other 1925 Pulitzer awards announced included $1000 awarded for the best American novel, which was awarded to Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith." The award for an original American play went to George Kelly for his drama, "Craig's Wife."

The sixth volume of "The History of the United States," by Edward Channing, won the $2000 award for the best book

2 REACH LAND AFTER FACING DEATH AT SEA

(By United Press)

SAUSALITO, Calif., May 4.—One hundred miles off the coast of California, John Chase and John Michaels found themselves faced by several forms of death. The motor in their 36-foot launch had broken down and they were out of the path of coastwise steamers.

But with a remarkable display of self-reliance and cool-headed nerve, they rigged an auxiliary mast, made a boom of their oars, a sail with blankets and thread, and steered for the Golden Gate.

They sailed two weeks, unlighted by passing ships. Food and water, sparingly used, came within a day or two of spanning the gap.

Early today, arriving within the fishing grounds off Golden Gate, they caught the attention of a craft which towed them to berth at Sausalito.

They delivered their story laughing. One month ago, they said, they left San Rafael for a fishing trip to Eureka. They started back two weeks ago, were driven many miles off shore and then their motor broke down.

Chase and Michaels, San Rafael residents, are both 24 years old. Their long absence was not noticed, as they have no relatives in California. Both claimed to be in the best of condition on landing.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 4.—Undaunted by three successive failures yesterday, Com. George H. Wilkins, of the Detroit Arctic expedition, today prepared to make another attempt to take off in the single-engine airplane Alaskan for Point Barrow.

The expedition, seemingly marked by ill fortune, will carry on with no other plan than the small Alaskan. Repeated attempts to get the huge Detroit off the ground have proved it unworthy. On each trial expedition, leaders report, the Detroit has displayed a dangerous tendency to drop after clearing the field. It would be impossible to fly the giant two-motored monoplane over the high Endicott range between Fairbanks and Barrow, the expedition's northernmost outpost.

It was decided that the Detroit should be flown back to the states.

Repeated failures of the Alaskan to get under way yesterday did not seriously affect Commander Wilkins' hopes. Slight damage was sustained by the fuselage of the machine on the third attempt, when it crashed into a clump of brush. The damage was soon repaired.

If today's attempt proves a failure, Commander Wilkins plans to substitute for the propeller now carried by the Alaskan another one of greater pulling power.

Wife Learns Mate Slain Year Ago

SEATTLE, May 4.—For a whole year, Mrs. Robert M. Fulton, Los Angeles, thought she was a deserted wife.

She had never been informed that her husband was one of the victims of a triple murder, committed in Seattle, May 1, 1925, by Lawrence Higgins, 35-year-old blacksmith, now serving a life sentence at Walla Walla.

She was first advised about the tragedy when a friend visited her in Los Angeles, it was learned here when she requested information about the slayings from authorities.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Upshaw movie censorship bill and the Reed department of education bill were killed today by the house education committee. At an executive session, the committee voted to shelve both measures for the remainder of the session.

BIGGEST CITY HELPLESS AS DAWN COMES

London Really Amazed at Tieup of Transportation, As General Strike Result

ARMY WALKS TO WORK

Jam of Motor Vehicles in Morning Rush Scarcely Able to Make Progress

(By United Press)

LONDON, May 4.—The largest city in the world awoke this morning to find itself as helpless as any little roadside hamlet.

Confident yesterday that there would be an eleventh-hour settlement of the general strike, London seemed really amazed today to find its transportation facilities at a standstill.

Starting at 4 and 5 a. m., workers of all ages and walks of life began trudging toward their daily tasks in the city.

Regardless of whether the strike continues, it has started with complete effectiveness.

Straggling workers were afoot for the most part, but bicycles, motorcycles and all manner of wagons and carts passed by in fantastic procession.

Woman in Baby Carriage

One old woman, without strength to walk any distance, was wheeled by her son in a baby carriage.

Beyond a few "pirate" non-union omnibuses, the streets were completely free of the 6000 busses which regularly choke London's thoroughfares.

Tram cars are not running and the entrances to the subway are closed, as though under quarantine. The great railway stations are deserted, except for a few idle workers loitering about.

The British refuses to drop the traditional British claim and there is not the slightest concern in any of the faces seen on the streets today.

Instead of decreasing street traffic, a strike doubled the rush hour jam this morning.

The traffic increased, tiny two-seater automobiles, lumbering trucks crowded with people and sleek limousines of the prosperous, all crawled along five abreast on the Thames embankment, Oxford street, Clapham High road and Kensington High street, London main arteries.

Congestion Delays Traffic

The usual 35-minute drive into town from the outskirts of the city took an hour and a half.

The sight of two girls on one motorcycle, one riding the pillion seat, elicited a cheer from the walking crowds.

The strike has resulted in the appearance of the "six-seater" motorcycle, its cargo consisting of the driver, two on the pillion seat and three in a side car.

A business center which seemed unaffected was the Covent Garden area, London's distributing center for vegetables, fruits and flowers. This produce is brought to London before dawn by non-union truck farmers and florists and taken to the homes of buyers by non-union costermongers.

Anticipate Big Business

At the stalls, workers were all busy and cheerful, anticipating a record business from housewives, stocking their larders against a shortage of foodstuffs.

Illustrative of the congestion of motor traffic, the car in which a United Press correspondent was touring the city was jammed in along the Thames embankment by a line of vehicles moving eight abreast. Many of the vehicles were loaded with food and supplies.

A reporter, who left the car three blocks from the United Press office, arrived 50 minutes before the machine reached the office door.

WOMAN IS SLAIN; HUSBAND JAILED

WILLIAMS, Ariz., May 4.—G. W. Johnson, former city engineer at Los Angeles, was held in jail here today, in connection with the death of his wife Hazel E. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson's body, hacked with a hatchet, was found in the family automobile, in a tourists' camp near here.

A coroner's jury, after an inquest, returned a verdict that "indications point to George W. Johnson as the slayer."

The couple was married in Santa Ana, a year ago. Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Meyer, of Los Angeles, were enroute here today.

The other children escaped.

Fifty Millions Plunged Into Economic Chaos As General Labor Walkout Becomes Effective

PUBLIC DETERMINED TO WIN

(By United Press)

LONDON, May 4.—Paralyzed today by the initial solar plexus blow of a general strike, Great Britain staggered to her feet in mid-afternoon and settled down to the grim business of coping with an unprecedented situation.

The first days results demonstrated the country's ability partially to loosen the strike tenacles, which are threatening to strangle the nation's business, industrial and social life.

Strikers In Scotland Stone Busses

GLASGOW, May 4.—The first violence of the general strike, which started at midnight, took place here today, when strikers bombarded with stones and bricks busses operated by strike-breakers between Glasgow and Hamilton.

The attacks caused many strike-breakers to abandon the service.

Sore-footed multitudes of London workers started the grilling trek home tonight with stern determination to outlast the strikers.

So far, there have been a few isolated minor disturbances resulting from the violence of parades of one side or the other.

Hull and southwest Wales are the principal prospective trouble centers and adequate garrisons of troops are waiting both.

The government's concentration on the situation was reflected in the early adjournment of the house of commons to permit Premier Baldwin and his cabinet to be free of parliamentary duties during the evening.

U. S. LABOR TO GIVE NO AID IN BRITISH STRIKE

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The general strike in Great Britain has created "a most grave situation and one which causes a feeling of deep concern in the minds of all thinking people," President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, declared in a statement today outlining the attitude of labor in this country toward the British strikers.

"The workers of the United States will observe with keen regret this experimentation in the use of the sympathetic strike as a means of bringing about the settlement of a wage controversy in a single industry," his statement said.

British Warships Hunt for Airman

HONGKONG, May 4.—British warships have joined the search for Captain Loriga, missing Spanish flyer, who was enroute from Hanoi, French Indo-China, to the Portuguese dependency of Macao, when he disappeared Saturday.

The fogs, which continue over the China coast, have rendered all efforts to find the Madrid-to-Tokyo aviator fruitless.

Loriga's companion, Captain Gallazara, hopped off with him from Hanoi and made the trip to Macao successfully.

JUDGE FAVORS FLOGGING FOR MEN WHO BEAT WIVES

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Judge Walter S. Gates, divorce specialist, went flat-footedly on record today in favor of a whipping-post in California for wife-beating husbands.

"Any man who is cowardly enough to beat his wife should have a taste of his own medicine," declared Judge Gates.

"Such a man is no good anywhere, and perhaps the bite of a good cat-o'-nine-tails might stir up his blood and bring him to his senses."

Judge Gates said he had hundreds of cases in his court in which "delicate, frail wives" have been "terribly beaten by great, hulking husbands, who were cowards at heart."

"There is one class of husbands who deserve no sympathy," added the judge, "and that is the wife-beater. It doesn't do any good to put them in jail—they seem to enjoy it. You've got to talk to them in their own language."

SOLONS ARE TO TAKE LICKS AT PROPAGANDISTS

By C. B. DODDS
(Special Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Members of congress are going home after adjournment, determined, if they have the opportunity during this campaign summer, to hit a few licks against propaganda and the propagandists. The latter are making life miserable for the average member of congress and the worm is beginning to turn.

The people are to be warned against accepting as gospel truths the scare letters sent out by Washington agencies with a selfish ax to grind. Intelligent letter writing is not to be discouraged and it will be made plain that it is the unintelligent correspondent, with only a smattering of his subject in mind, who is urged on by a special lobbying interest in Washington that causes all the trouble.

Can Detect Propaganda
A senator or a congressman can tell at a glance over a letter in his morning mail just how much his correspondent knows about the subject matter. A letter indicating on its face that the writer knows little or nothing about his subject never did carry much influence and will carry still less in the future, because congressmen are tired to death of propaganda.

Out of the flood of propaganda that reached Washington during the present session, the campaign directed against the Stanford grazing bill has been declared to be the most senseless. A Washington lobbying agency, financed mostly by easterners, sent out 10,000 scare letters all over the west, urging a barrage of correspondence against the Stanford bill. Irrespective of the merits of this grazing bill and admitting that there was much to be said on both sides of the question, the criticism was directed against the fact that 999 out of every 1000 letters received were from individuals who quite apparently did not know what they were writing about. They acted on one of the scare letters sent out from Washington, which contained very little information, but was intended to frighten the reader into thinking that all of the western forests were about to be turned over to the plutocratic cattle and sheep interests.

Here's Propaganda Gem
The text of this letter, which is said to be a gem of sophistry, or political bunkum, reads:

"Our big fight is on. The Stanford grazing bill (S. 2584) has been introduced in congress. If enacted into law, it will be a destroying wedge in our national forests—the greatest conservation achievement of the American people."

"The Stanford bill must not pass. Your loyal support has made it possible for your association to take the active lead in the defense of the public's interests. We are in the fight to win. Now, more than ever, we need the continued support of our members, collectively and individually, for this measure is the most far-reaching menace in the whole history of the conservation. Read carefully your February copy of American Forests and Forest Life and then let your senator know how you feel about this bill."

By an ingenious method of computation Senator Howell, of Nebraska, during the debate on the Belgian debt settlement, said the settlement would cost California taxpayers, $33,000,000.

Senator Shortridge questioned the figures, pointing out that the entire Belgian debt is $483,000,000 and that the full payments made will amount to $620,000,000.

"Will the senator please state how he arrived at that figure?" asked Shortridge. "We are growing so rapidly in population that it is difficult from day to day to arrive at an exact figure."

"Or has the computation on the population figures of the 1920 census," answered the Nebraska senator.

"But California has probably increased fully a million and a half in population since 1920," replied Shortridge.

"Then the loss of California will be very much greater," said Howell.

"We will be bankrupt pretty soon at that rate I am afraid," replied Shortridge, "but I am not frightened by the senator's theory or prophecy."

MURDERER FLEES FROM ROAD CAMP

SACRAMENTO, May 4.—Somewhere in the Sierra Nevada, Zolite Clement, notorious highwayman and murderer, was believed today to be making his way toward civilization in the San Joaquin valley. Clement walked away from the Folsom prison road camp near El Portal, Mariposa county, Sunday afternoon. A prison guard and a member of the sheriff's office of Mariposa county are reported to have traced Clement 20 miles up into the South Fork country, near Wawona.

Clement had served 14 years of a life sentence for killing William Newman, Stockton, saloon proprietor. He confessed after his arrest that he killed a policeman named Brown, in Oakland, in 1906 and a Sacramento carpenter, Jas. Markham, in 1902.

The prisoner also admitted robberies in the San Francisco bay region and in northern California. He was 26 years of age when committed to Folsom.

HIJACKER SLAYER GETS LIFE TERM

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Charles Fitzgerald, convicted hijacker and gunman, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Victor Morfitt today for the murder, last February, of Elmer H. Griffin, San Gabriel motorcycle officer.

Fitzgerald appeared in court today with Antonio Rojo, held also in connection with the shooting, and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. Rojo also was sentenced to a life term in the state penitentiary.

Louis Delorme, 17, a third member of the hijacking trio, alleged to have killed Motorcycle Officer Griffin, when he sought to stop them from speeding on Valley boulevard, had his case transferred to juvenile court.

Fitzgerald, ring-leader of the band, will be taken to Folsom penitentiary tomorrow.

Four Miners Near Death from Gas

REDDING, Calif., May 4.—Four miners were near death here today, after being gassed by sulphide fumes caused by a powder blast in the Hornet mine, near here.

The four are Otto Miller, Louis Lally, Jacob McCord and John Virpos.

The explosion of the powder, believed to have been accidentally set off in an excavation in which the men were mining for sulphide ore, was heard by fellow workers at the entrance. Realizing the dangerous properties of the gas, they rushed to the rescue of their four companions at danger of their own lives.

House Ready for Proof on Judge

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The house today adopted a resolution asserting it was prepared to prove its charges of misconduct in office against Federal Judge George W. English, of the eastern district of Illinois. The resolution was a formal reply to English's categorical denial of the charges preferred by the house, made in the senate yesterday, when he was formally arraigned.

ing to maintain the standard of life for the great mass of the people.

"The trades unions did not enter the fight without counting the cost. They are assured that all trades unionists in the country will stand loyally by the instructions of their leaders, who have issued orders that violence and disorder must everywhere be avoided, no matter what the excitement."

Despite the desire of the strike authorities to maintain order in their ranks, minor incidents have already occurred.

Trouble at Newspaper Office
A gang of 40 strikers rushed the doors of the office of the London Daily Telegraph early this morning. The men were driven off by three guards, after attempting to sing "The Red Flag." Striking workers closed and locked the gates of St. Pancras station, in London, and affixed posters outside reading: "Stand all as one." The Laborite Daily Herald this morning says that Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, was booted by machinists at the London Daily Mail when he visited the offices at midnight.

Labor would fight this strike through to the end, A. J. Cook, of the Miners' federation, told the United Press today.

"We have no intention of reopening negotiations with the government," he said.

The Trades Union Congress council today met with the miners' executives and other leaders to discuss means of feeding strikers' women and children.

Baldwin and King Confer
Premier Stanley Baldwin was closeted with King George at Buckingham Palace in a lengthy conference this morning. In their last publications before closing with the printers' strike, this morning's newspapers deprecated the policies of the government in no uncertain terms.

Baldwin "suddenly put his foot down at the wrong moment," the Westminster Gazette, Liberal, said. The London Daily News found the government "thoroughly ill advised."

The Chronicle, supporting Lloyd George, appealed to the government to "put aside all pride at the earliest moment and re-enter peaceful negotiations."

The Trades Union council, miners' officials and Labor party leaders conferred privately at Trades Union headquarters in Eccleston Square, at 11 a. m., today. Among those present were A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' federation; ex-Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Henderson.

"We are hoping for a short strike and a decisive victory," Cook said in a statement to the United Press before the meeting.

All workers involved in the general strike are not to quit at once, according to Cook. "Total paralysis by stages" is the workers' plan, with railways, shipping and newspapers the first affected.

MINE UNION MOVES TO INTERCEPT COAL

BERLIN, May 4.—Mine workers' executives have decided to notify transport unions throughout Europe to intercept shipments of coal designed for England, it is learned today.

POUND STERLING DROPS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 4.—The British general strike brought a further decline in the pound sterling at the opening of the foreign exchange trading here today. At $4.84½, the pound was off ¼ point from last night's closing price and 1½ lower than a week ago. Other exchanges tended toward irregularity. French francs rose 0.0001½ to $0.027½, while Belgian francs continued to drop, opening at $0.025½ off .0003½. Norwegian kroner were off 13 points, while small increases were noted in Spanish and Danish currency.

BRAWLEY.—Crates shipments of cantaloupes are being made from Imperial valley nearly two weeks ahead of any previous season.
Warm weather for the last few days has set the crop forward several days earlier than anticipated and it is believed that in another week carload shipments will be under way. A final survey shows an acreage of 34,000 acres planted to cantaloupes. Watermelon acreage in the Westmoreland district is heavier than usual this year and conditions of the vines indicates an early harvest of this melon. It is believed that ripe watermelons will be placed in the coast markets by May 20.

REDLANDS.—Forty acres of big trees in the heart of the mountains just beyond the Valley of the Falls and within a mile and a half of a paved road when the highway is completed, will be leased by the city of Redlands for a playground for the people of this city in the summer time. It is planned to set aside a part of the 40 acres for a permanent camp for the Y. M. C. A.
There also will be a small part set aside to be leased to citizens, who want to build private cabins. The remainder will be fitted up for city camping grounds. The city build a small house to be used as a store, comfort stations and other needs which will probably not cost more than $1500. Cabins can be built later, as there is a demand for them. Also, a store can be established and it is believed in this way an overseer for the camp can be secured.

CAHUENGA PARK.—Grading and steam-shovel work on the north part of the extension of South Sherman way, through the Santa Monica hills to the new University of California site will be completed within the next two or three days.
The new road will have an easy grade to the mountain summit.
Following the completion of the grading the roadway is to be paved, providing a direct route from here to Van Nuys and points north of the central part of San Fernando valley to the Beverly Hills and beach town communities. By the new route, four or five miles of travel now necessary, will be eliminated.

LIE PASSED AT CLASH OF
RANCHERS AND NELSON ON DELAY IN GUN CLUB TRIALS

At an angry conference today between a delegation of ranchers and District Attorney A. P. Nelson, resulting when the gun club trials for alleged waste of water were postponed to May 20, hot incriminations were voiced, the lie was passed and open threats of recall were made against the official.

Aroused by postponement of the case and announced that, in view of the absence of the defendants, Nelson's office and demanded an explanation. Nelson explained that, at the request of the farm bureau directors, made through Secretary A. M. Stanley, of the farm bureau, the trials had been postponed until after a meeting between the farm bureau directors and its water conservation committee. The water conservation committee, it was understood, had desired to report upon a plan to compromise the water situation with a committee representing the gun clubs. In this way, said Nelson, it was felt that less water would be used by the gun clubs. They could easily evade the present law, he said, though at the present time they have violated it and could be prosecuted.

District Attorney Criticized
Nelson said that he intended to prosecute the cases, unless the farm bureau recommended that they be dismissed. Several members of the delegation expressed the suspicion that the cases would never be prosecuted, and criticized the district attorney for listening to Stanley. H. E. Carner was among the most open critics of the district attorney. He declared that the last grand jury had investigated the gun clubs and had incorporated in its report a recommendation for prosecution. This, he declared, was being ignored and he questioned the right of the farm bureau, the district attorney or anyone else to disregard the grand jury's wishes.

Nelson declared that a complaint had been brought to his office, the matter of prosecution was entirely in his own discretion, and that he would exercise that discretion so long as he held the office.

An open clash came between Carner and Nelson, when Nelson intimated that he "knew what was behind the whole fuss being raised about the gun club cases."

Carner apparently knew what was coming, for he flared up and "challenged" Nelson to "spit it out." Nelson did so.

"The fact is," he told Carner, "that the Ku Klux Klan is behind this and is trying to get something on me."

Lie is Passed
"That's a lie," Carner roared, shaking his finger at Nelson. Other members of the delegation at the same time voiced their violent disapproval of the charge. Some of them disclaimed any connection with the Ku Klux Klan.

"I belong to the Klan and I'm proud of it," said Carner, still trembling with rage. "But that is a lie, just the same. The Klan has nothing to do with this matter."

"Let's get out our petitions for a recall," shouted W. C. Maerhan, another leader of the delegation. "That's a slander against all of us."

Later, the conference cooled somewhat, and Nelson told the delegation that, if it was shown that the farm bureau, in its position relative to the gun club cases, was not representing the majority of the farmers in the county, he would disregard its recommendation. He advised the delegation to attend the scheduled meetings of the farm bureau and have a voice in the matter.

Ranchers Leave Office
Still buzzing angrily, the ranchers finally left Nelson's office and started for the farm bureau to interview Stanley, but he was absent. The minutes of the last meeting of the farm bureau directors were inspected, and it was found that the directors had authorized Stanley to request the district attorney to seek postponement of the cases until after May 5, when the directors meet with the water conservation committee.

Maerhan declared, in the conference with Nelson, that he could get signatures of more ranchers than the total membership of the farm bureau, asking for prosecution of the cases. He and several other members declared they expected to resign from the farm bureau immediately, but another spokesman urged that, instead of that, they stay with the bureau and try to correct any faults they find.

Jury Foreman Present
James Livesey sr., foreman of the last grand jury and at present a candidate for county treasurer, was among the delegation, and verified the statement that he had appointed the committee of the grand jury which investigated the gun clubs and recommended action against them.

Nelson tried several times to impress his visitors with the fact that the prosecution has not been relinquished, but Carner and others insisted that they believed the cases would eventually be dismissed. Most of the ranchers present today had been subpoenaed to Justice K. E. Morrison's court for the trial. When the court called the

BEAR READY TO CAST OFF FOR
FAREWELL TRIP

(By United Press)

OAKLAND, May 4.—Laughing at time and the edicts of man, the ancient coast guard cutter Bear today lay at berth, ready to cast off tomorrow for the top of the world.
It will be the Bear's "farewell trip."

She has made a "farewell trip"
each spring for three or four years past. But on each returning, covered anew with the distinction of having done her work well, the hearts of men have relented and their edicts—"to the junk heap"— have been rescinded.

Alaskans Await Ship
Alaskans eagerly are awaiting the blunt prow of the Bear, biting its way through the ice floes. The Bear is their first and only official harbinger of Spring. It has been so for 53 years. For 53 years the Bear has been an integral part of Alaska's life. The first reindeer were taken into Alaska by the Bear.
The ship has rushed to the aid of communities ridden with famine and plague. Piracy has been conquered by the battered old craft.
Where the Bear has gone, law has gone.

But the coast guard has decided on a restful pensioner's post for the Bear, when she returns from this "farewell voyage." She will be stationed off Los Angeles, according to plans, as a coast guard station ship.

Bear Launched in 1873
The Bear was launched in Scotland in 1873. Almost immediately it jumped into the limelight when it was purchased by the U. S. navy to join the relief fleet sent to find the lost Greeley expedition. The Greeley party was rescued at Cape
Sabine, Ellesmere Land.

In 1885, the Bear was taken into the revenue and coast guard service. Since then it has annually visited Point Barrow, the north-most American community.

In the afternoon session of bridge three attractive prizes were given and in addition were the special gifts for the three honorees, Mrs. Walter of San Francisco who received an exquisite string of pearls; Mrs. Burmister of Los Angeles who was showered with dainty handkerchiefs, and the charming Santa Ana girl, Miss Daves, whose gift was a blue leather hat trunk. This will be Montreal where on June 15, since on Thursday morning Miss Daves will accompany her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Clement Daves, on their transcontinental motor trip. Their first objective point will be the Montreal where on June 15, Miss Daves will embark for Europe in company with Mrs. Elmer Barr Burns of this city and Mrs. Daniel A. Casey of Orange.

Capistrano Y. L. I.

Twenty members of Capistrano Institute, Y.L.I., attended the annual district meeting of the Young Ladies Institute held Sunday at St. Boniface hall, Anaheim with Anaheim Institute as host. Three hundred representative Catholic women of the southland were in attendance.

The Elks club dining-room was the scene of a merry gathering at noon, when dinner was served to 200 members, the long tables being graced with lovely spring blossoms artistically arranged in baskets. The Rev. Father Joseph A. Sullivan, president of Loyola University and chaplain of Los Angeles Institute, Los Angeles, offered grace before and after the dinner.

St. Boniface hall presented a beautiful picture with its lattices twined with greenery and morning glories and used with numerous baskets of vari-colored blossoms. The stage was garlanded with greenery and at each officer's station was placed a corsage bouquet.

Each institute took candidates for initiation, thirty-one being in line for the impressive ceremonies, the officers being the deputies from the various institutes as follows: past president, Edna Le Blanc, Anaheim; president, Marie Loeb, deputy-at-large; first vice-president, Marie Robertson, Capistrano; second vice president, Marie Carroll, Heffernan; marshal, Dolores Palethorpe, Regina Coeli; assistant marshal, Stella Engelman, president Capistrano; recording secretary, Ruth Palethorpe, Alhambra; treasurer, Blair Hour, Glendale; financial secretary, Maude Kyffin, Los Angeles; inside sentinel, Genevieve Colgan, Santa Monica; outside sentinel, Viola Nolan, Pasadena; organist, Geraldine Dolan; trustees, Coletta Engleman, Regina Coeli; Clara Blesener, Capistrano; Henrietta Mech, Glendale; Mary Ellen Craig, Alhambra; Frances Flaherty, Santa Monica.

Visitors present were the Rev. Fathers Patrick Brown, chaplain for Anaheim; Joseph A. Sullivan, Los Angeles Institute; Francis J. Conaty, Regina Coeli; Horican, Connelly and Shea; Maude Kyffin and Mary Rilling, grand directors, and Viola Nolan, grand outside sentinel.

Under good of the order, response was made by Miss Katherine Kelly, Los Angeles; Father Sullivan, who spoke on co-operation and faithful attendance, illustrating his talk with various humorous stories; Father Conaty, whose topic was "The Ideals of Womanhood;" Father Horican, who kept his audience in roars of laughter; Father Connelly of Santa Ana, Father Greina and Father Shea, all of whom had words of encouragement and congratulation for the order.

The "mother" of the Y.L.I. movement in Southern California, Mrs. Cecelia Greenbaum, was introduced. Her first child was Los Angeles Institute, No. 73. There are now two institutes in Los Angeles, one each in Santa Monica, Alhambra, Glendale, San Diego, Anaheim, Santa Ana and Pasadena, all of which are flourishing.

Miss Marie Robertson and her committee of Anaheim Institute were given a rising vote of thanks for their hospitality, and the invitation of Heffernan Institute of San Diego for the 1927 district meeting was accepted, San Diego being present thirty-five strong with a very charming song of invitation.

While refreshments were being served, the Misses Elizabeth and Rose Donnelly, and Katherine Huarte pleased with vocal, violin

Young People Conquer Difficulties and Obtain License

HE home of Mrs. Allie Ash was the scene of an unexpected wedding late Saturday evening when Miss Allie Ash, formerly of Olaf, Colo., but now of Los Angeles, became the bride of Elmer A. Sheeley of Pueblo, Colo.

The young people had not planned to be married until in June, but Mr. Sheeley was offered an excellent position in Klamath Falls, Ore., and on his way to the new place, stopped in Los Angeles to claim his bride, a cousin of Mrs. Allie Ash, Annie L. Ash and Park Ash of this city. In Los Angeles, when they went to procure their marriage license, they found the bureau closed, so motored to Santa Ana accompanied by their relatives and friends invited to the wedding.

Here, they found the clerk, J. M. Backs, absent, as in company with all other courthouse employees, he was at the picnic at Orange county park. They had to await his return, and that was about 9:30 o'clock, so the wedding ceremony was a 10 o'clock event, with the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, officiating.

Accompanying the happy couple, included Mrs. Mattie A. Burns, mother of the bride; Mrs. Jennie Ash, Miss Winnie Ash, Mrs. Stella May Allen, the bride's closest friend ever since childhood days, and George Davis of Long Beach.

The wedding ceremony was followed by congratulations and good wishes, and an interval when light refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Sheeley then left for a honeymoon which will be followed by their departure for Oregon.

Classmates Plan Gay Surprise Party

Santa Ana's famous little "Sunset" park, was the scene of a happy affair last Saturday afternoon, when members of the Three in One class of Spurgeon Memorial Sunday school, conspired to surprise Mrs. L. E. Martin of 1419 West Ninth street, upon the occasion of her birthday.

Fully thirty-five guests shared in the pleasant afternoon which was made a park party by adjourning to the small but charming little grassy spot called by courtesy, a park. Lively games and contests planned by the class members, made the hours fly and at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Martin had her second surprise when delicious cakes were produced and served with equally delicious home-made ice cream. Numerous gifts were presented the honoree to the accompaniment of friendly wishes for many more happy birthdays.

Laguna Artist Paints Portrait of R. L. S.

Mrs. Helen Chalmers, widely-known portrait painter of Laguna Beach, and wife of Stephen Chalmers, the author, was given a reception recently by the Robert Louis Stevenson society of Los Angeles at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ora E. Monnette of that city. At the reception, unveiling ceremonies exhibited for its first showing "The Teller of Tales," a portrait impression of Stevenson by Mrs. Chalmers, who was commissioned by the Stevenson society to paint the portrait. The painting is the result of an intensive study of the famous author by the artist, extending over a period of twenty years.

An interesting program appropriate for the occasion, including a sketch of the life of "R. L. S." was given in connection with the unveiling.

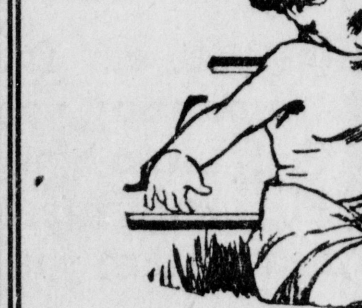

The painting will be shipped soon to Saranac Lake, N. Y., where it will remain on display for a year in the National Robert Louis Stevenson headquarters. A copy of the portrait is to be given to the Robert Louis Stevenson High school of Los Angeles at its dedication.

Exhibit of Sculpture In Los Angeles at C. of C. Building

SCHEDULED to continue but two weeks instead of the customary month, the spring exhibit of the California Sculptors' Guild opened Saturday night at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce building with the usual reception following a dinner at which Mayor Hyland and members of the Los Angeles civic body were guests.

Miss Beulah May, talented Santa Ana member of the Guild, was among those attending the dinner and subsequent reception, and also one whose work had been accepted for the exhibit. For Miss May is represented this spring by three charming infant heads, for which the babies of a little group of her friends have formed models.

Leonard Baker, another Santa Ana member, is represented by a bust for which Frederick Elliott was model.

According to Miss May, the display is one of the most attractive ever yet presented for the pleasure and approval of the public, and is heightened in beauty by the many handsome oriental rugs and fine old furniture used in connection with it. It is located on the top floor of the chamber of commerce building, occupying the site which is to be converted into dining-rooms.

Birthday Party Given For Little Maid

Last Friday afternoon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Fowler at 1134 South Ross street, was the scene of a happy birthday party when their little three-year-old daughter, Doris Evelyn Fowler, was the honoree.

Merry games were enjoyed by the small people until the supper hour when they excitedly assembled in the dining-room to share the birthday dainties, including a beautiful cake iced in pink and white and sparkling with three pink candles. For everything at Doris Evelyn's party was in pink and white and of course the goodies of the supper hour must harmonize.

The demure little birthday maid was showered with pretty gifts by her playmates who included Lois Banks, Patricia Sharpley, Emma Fowler, Farris Doak, Margie Dennis, Thelma Fowler, Junior Kimball and Kenneth Hassett. Many flowers were also sent to honor the anniversary.

Picture taking was a part of the afternoon's pleasure, and the sight of the tots assembled for their pictures, was an interesting one, enjoyed by a little group of mothers, including Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Sharpley, Mrs. A. E. Fowler, Mrs. P. B. Banks, Mrs. C. E. Fowler and Mrs. Paul Kimball.

Those attending the party were Mrs. F. L. Edwards, Miss Eva Dixon, Miss Mary Jo Anderson, Miss Velma Mahaffey, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Miss Suzanne Verbury, Miss Florence Johnson, Miss Evelyn Ketchum and Miss Velma Hayward.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Baptist Philatheas

The spacious rooms of the J. A. Gardiner home, 505 South Broadway, took on the appearance of a real flower garden recently honoring members of the Baptist Philatheas class who were invited guests for the evening.

Surrounded by myriads of flowers, roses predominating, Mrs. Minnie Holmes led a beautiful devotional service, portraying many "lessons from flowers."

Miss Gertrude Minor, class president, presided in her usual gracious manner. Reports of committees were listened to and much interest was manifest in a letter from a far off member who is wintering in Florida.

A very worth while program of readings and musical numbers was rendered. Mrs. L. E. Beaman was the reader of the evening and Mrs. Joseph Holman the vocal soloist. Miss Evalina Richards added violin solos, accompanied by Miss Aileen Lair.

Two little skits entitled "The Spring Song" and "The Tale of Black Beauty," put on by Mrs. J. P. Williams and Miss Ida Nay, furnished much merriment.

At a late hour delectable refreshments were served. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Gardiner were Mesdames Owens, Patterson, J. P. Williams and Miss Ida Nay.

Following the pleasant interval, way was led to the pleasant home near by where bridge tables were awaiting the guests.

Attractive prizes were awarded to Mrs. Morris Cain, Mrs. Ray Wolven and Mrs. Lloyd Knight. Miss Dorothy Bailey assisted Mrs. Minnix in all pleasant hostess duties.

WHAT COUNCIL DID

COUNCIL HEARS LIGHTNING TALK BY NAT H. NEFF

Nat H. Neff, city engineer, qualified last night as an illumination expert, when he submitted to the city council an edifying dissertation on classification of street lighting.

The information was given in compliance with a request from the council at the previous meeting, when discussions were had on the subject of illumination of ornamental lights and whether systems in residential districts should be as bright as those in the business sections.

Pointing out that the first step in designing a lighting system is to zone the city, Neff said that cities should be laid out with six subdivisions—principal business streets, secondary business streets, main traffic arteries, secondary traffic arteries, residential streets and park drives and highways. Some classifications, he said, may include manufacturing and wholesale districts, but these may usually be placed under traffic arteries or secondary business streets.

Continuing, the engineer discussed street lighting as follows: Must Consider Needs
"In planning a system of exterior illumination to meet the requirements of each section of the city must be carefully considered. The shopping centers demand one type of illumination peculiarly their own; the residential streets, open parks, drives, and outlying districts each in its turn require special consideration and quite different treatments as regards both the illuminating units and the ornamental standards of fixtures employed.

"The lighting of business streets require, in addition to the usual purpose of good general lighting, an illumination tolerable and pleasing to the eye, yet sufficiently brilliant to produce a marked effect in the improvement of business, by attracting people to the brilliantly lighted thoroughfares and at the same time allowing their attention to be drawn freely to the matter of most importance, the attractive window displays and decorations.

"This object is largely obtained by means of the contrast between the color schemes employed in these decorations and the color of the general illumination. Other important considerations are the appearance of the lighted unit, the illumination of the building fronts from both esthetic and economic viewpoints, the daytime appearance of the lighting standard, dignified, simple, or ornate, as harmony with its surroundings requires, and yet unobtrusive and free from overhanging arms and glassware that might impede traffic and endanger pedestrians.

"The problem of laying out a 'great white way' system as described above is quite different from the problem of lighting the streets of the residential section, for the latter is largely a utilitarian one and bears on the matter of police protection and suitable lighting for pedestrians, motorists and other users of the thoroughfare.

Low Average Intensity
"Residential street lighting is from its very nature of low average intensity. As this class of lighting comprises a relatively large percentage of the city's streets, it is important for obvious reasons that the most efficient unit suitable be used. It is desired, also, to employ as few light sources as possible for a given average intensity of illumination, since the apparent effect produced by many small light sources is that of a very much lower intensity of illumination, because the only images produced on the retina of the eye are those of the light sources themselves.

"In residential street lighting, the principle of silhouette lighting must be employed, that is, most of the seeing is accomplished by the discernment of objects in contrast with a lighted background, which is usually the street surface rather than by the light reflected from the objects themselves. A non-uniform illumination is more desirable for this kind of lighting than one extremely uniform.

"We are all familiar with the difficulty of seeing by moonlight under certain conditions. Discernment of objects is practically impossible if the moon happens to be within the range of vision, while with the moon at the observer's back the ability of the eye to discern objects in silhouette against the lighted background is greatly improved. So it is with the uniform low intensity illumination obtained with the use of small units; if the light sources could be removed absolutely from the line of vision, such low intensity illumination might be used.

City Council to Contribute Funds For Playgrounds

Parent-Teacher associations today had won a victory in their campaign for supervised summer playgrounds on school grounds during the summer.

Following a report to the council, last night, by Collier and Chapman, that the board of education had agreed to contribute $750 if the city would duplicate the amount, this sum was ordered available to the proper authorities at the proper time. The money will be taken from the park fund.

It is estimated that the playground operations for the summer will cost approximately $1800 and the associations have obligated themselves to raise $300 needed to complete the fund.

BOARD ORDERS INVENTORY OF CITY PROPERTY

Heads of various city departments today were under instruction to submit to the council at the earliest date possible a complete inventory of property in their respective departments, the instruction being given last night in initiation, by the council, of an attempt to get a detailed enumeration and holdings of the municipality.

Valuation of city buildings was detailed to Councilman Charles H. Chapman, who advised the council that he would procure the assistance of a man competent to appraise the properties. Appraisal of furniture and office equipment in the city hall was given to George McPhee, who is house committee man on the council.

That Judge J. F. Talbot, city recorder, contemplates a trip abroad, was revealed when he last night asked for a leave of absence for 30 days, starting May 24. He stated that Andrew H. Wilson, justice of the peace at Newport Beach, would take care of cases developing in his court.

Request of the Seventh Day Adventist church, Fifteenth and Sycamore streets, for permission to locate a cesspool in Sycamore street, unopened at this time, was referred to City Engineer Neff and Street Commissioner Goode.

Receive Large Check
Council members were made happy by a "windfall" that dropped when J. C. Hayden, district manager for the Southern Counties Gas company, walked into the council chambers and handed Mayor Frank Purinton a check for $257.44. The manager explained that the check covered the company's franchise tax for 1925, and he passed out the encouraging information that the check next year probably would be larger, as the company's business is increasing year by year.

I. F. Flickas was given permission to install pumps and gas tanks for an oil station, to be located on the corner of Van Ness avenue and Edinger street.

Five bids were received for supplying the city water department with 3100 feet of pipe and the offers were referred to Water Superintendent Wray. The bids were submitted f. o. b. San Pedro.

The solons evidenced compassion for the traffic officers, who direct traffic at the corner of Fourth and Main streets, when they directed temporary acceptance of an offer by the Globe Milling company to supply a small stand, with cork bottom, for the officers to stand on while on duty. Police Commissioner McPhee presented the proposition.

Representing property owners on Beverly street, E. J. Dietrich discussed re-lighting of the ornamental system on that street. The owners have contributed funds to pay for the lighting for one year. Dietrich was advised to conduct his negotiations direct with the Southern California Edison company, as the system never had been accepted by the city.

House Moving Permits
Permission was given F. F. Thorpe to move a building in the 1100 block on North Broadway to North Dalsey street; one from the northeast corner of Tenth and Ross streets to Daisy street, and to relocate on the same lot the residence at the northwest corner of Buffalo and Main streets. O. V. Dart was given permission to move a building at 1027 Highland street to a location outside the city; one from 337 West Nineteenth to a location on West Sixth street; one from 339 West Nineteenth to a lot on the south side of Nineteenth street. The West Nineteenth removals have been made necessary by the opening of Victoria drive, it was explained.

Approval was given a subdivision map, developed as an incident of the extension of Ross street north two blocks from Nineteenth street.

Other large areas, however, as early as 1914, entire streets began to be lighted in this manner and there is now a definite movement toward the standardization of the twin-light unit using high intensity lamps for the illumination of the business districts."

STEP TAKEN TO GOVERN RABBIT RAISING IN CITY

Barrels and boxes will be taboo as pens for rabbits maintained in private yards, if a suggested amendment to ordinance No. 641 is adopted as presented to the council last night by W. W. Chandler, sanitary inspector for the city and county. The ordinance governs the harboring of live animals within the city.

The amendment does not attempt to specify the type of construction, but provides that rabbits must be kept in hutches approved by the city health department and that the hutches must be kept sanitary at all times.

In effect, Chandler said, this meant that hutches made of old boxes or barrels could not get by in the future. Pointing out that the nuisance of odors could be eliminated to a large extent, the inspector said that one of the requirements would be the maintenance of catch pans of tin or iron

Naturally pretty teeth are hidden by a dingy film coat

Don't hide yours any longer. Accept this remarkable dental test that restores "off-color" teeth to whiteness, and firms gums.

A new method in clearing up cloudy teeth, in giving "off-color" teeth an almost dazzling whiteness has been found.

Leading dentists urge it widely. For it protects the teeth and firms tender gums.

It works by removing a dingy film that forms on your teeth, and dulls them by absorbing discolorations from food, smoking, etc. A slippery film you can feel with your tongue; and that invites germ growth, decayed teeth and gum troubles.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove it successfully. That's why brushing fails you.

Beneath it are the teeth you envy in others. One's whole appearance changes as clear, white teeth come.

D. of A. R.

The Daughters of the American Revolution meet at the home of Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch, last Saturday afternoon. After the routine business was disposed of, the regent asked for Mrs. J. J. Pyle, chairman of genealogical research for the D. A. R., to make a report, and money was voted for a questionnaire which is to be sent to all old residents in the county. By the term "old residents" is meant one who settled here prior to 1850. It is hoped by this means to crystallize a great deal of the early history which would otherwise be lost.

Election of officers for the coming year resulted in the return to office of the present incumbents, Mrs. C. F. Smith, regent; Mrs. E. M. Blake, vice regent; Mrs. Minnie Holmes, secretary; Mrs. H. M. Sammis, corresponding secretary; Miss Mabel McFadden, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Ash, registrar; Mrs. J. J. Pyle, historian; Mrs. Almira Hudson, chaplain.

The program for the day, a resume of the Revolutionary war, was given by Miss Jennie Lasby, assisted by Miss Vane Plumb and Mrs. E. M. Blake. Miss Lasby brought to the subject her own wide experience in dealing with history in the more candid light of modern research, and gave interesting sidelights on events and leaders. She gave an appreciation of the character of Washington that was in accord with the latest data, yet very like the ideals we had formed of him—a man of few fol-

(By United Press)

RIVERSIDE, May 4.—More than 1000 California clubwomen gathered here today in annual convocation. The women represented 800 federated clubs of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting for the 25th time in annual session. Dr. Marjane Bertola, state president, presided at the opening session.

The proposal to combine the offices of state president and California director of the general federation was one of the main business problems confronting the convention. President Bertola favors the plan, and Mrs. Robert Burdette, Pasadena, leads a faction which is opposed to the combination.

Another controversial question was the proposal to force members of county federations to join district and state organizations or withdraw from the county units.

Mrs. Henry C. Goodell, San Bernardino, a prominent candidate for the next state presidency, heads the opposition to this proposal. She is supported by most of the delegates from Southern California counties.

Troops Release Andrews Caravan

PEKING, May 4.—After having been thrice confiscated by the military, Roy Chapman Andrews' camel train has at last left Kalgan, starting the new Asiatic expedition under heavy guard. The motor cars of the explorer's party will follow in a month.

bles and whose guiding genius presided over and laid out the campaigns of the entire Revolutionary war. His strategy and finesse, his accuracy and attention to details, and withal his fairness in dealing with men, gave him rank as one of the greatest military geniuses of all time.

Miss Plumb told of Philadelphia as it was during the occupation by the British. She gave many interesting and intimate touches that made its life, with its extravagance and gaiety, seem more real. Mrs. Blake told of the rank bestowed by congress on the intrepid foreigners who fought with the Revolutionary forces in the cause of liberty.

Tea and delicious sandwiches were served after the program by Mrs. Hatch and her assistant hostesses, Mrs. Joseph Metzgar, Mrs. E. G. Warner, Mrs. George Ash and Miss Larick.

Birthday Gayeties

A joint birthday anniversary party was given at St. Ann's Inn recently in honor of Mrs. Mabel Isaacson and Robert E. Walker. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Halsell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elrod, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bisby, Mrs. R. E. Walker and Miss Opal Street of Los Angeles.

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surgeon's Prescription Called Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Physicians

There is one simple and inexpensive way to reduce the danger of swollen veins and bunches, and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, using the Moone's Bandage to support them during the day. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and loss of time.

Moone's Emerald Oil besides being so marvelously antiseptic that it at once destroys germs and poisons caused by germs is such a remarkable healing agent that eczema, barbers' itch, salt rheum and other inflammatory skin eruptions go in a few days.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores, and with the most perfect success. With each original bottle which any pharmacist can supply you, is a folder that gives instructions for use in all of the above distressing conditions.

Your druggist and all druggists will be glad to supply you.—Adv.

The charge on which he was fined was reckless driving, the original charge having been reduced. Rudicell was represented in court by Attorney Otto Jacobs.

COMMERCIAL SECRETARY OF BALBOA TO BE PRESENT AT JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETING

What—no women?
And the entertainment committee of the junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce proceeded to recruit one, at least.

The "woman in the case" at the meeting of the organization, that is to say, one of the women in the case, will be Miss Lillian Van Osedale, secretary of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce. She is 22 years old, pretty and the only woman chamber of commerce secretary in this section of Southern California.

She has been invited to be the special guest of the junior chamber and has accepted the invitation. Incidentally, Miss Van Osedale will take occasion to advertise the fact that the annual Balboa bathing girls' revue will be held on the sands of the seaside city in June.

Tomorrow, another important announcement concerning the program for the meeting next Monday night will be made, it was said. A plan to invite the wives of the members to attend has been abandoned. A special "ladies' night" program may be arranged later in the summer, according to President Mason Yould.

The meeting will be held at Ketter's cafe, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

SPANISH STUDENTS PRESENT PROGRAM

Scenes from the Spanish comedy, "Zaraguetta," were presented by the students of the Spanish club of the Santa Ana polytechnic high school at the semester meeting of the club, held last night in the music auditorium of the school.

All speech at the meeting was confined to Spanish. The play was given in Spanish and even the conversation among the students was in Spanish.

In addition to the comedy, a program of entertainment had been arranged by Miss Ruth Frothingham, Spanish teacher. Songs in Spanish were sung by Edward Delgado. Miss Chalmra Lindsey interpreted Spanish dances. A violin solo was played by Miss Georgia Belle Walton.

Members of the cast of the comedy were Ruth Hants, Doris Jones, Lois Veatch, Fred Hummiston, Frank Klatt, Clark Barr, Olive Granger, Edward Gaebe and Grace Haskell.

The prologue of "Zaraguetta" was given by Miss Luella Thompson. The meeting of the Spanish students was presided over by Miss Dorothy Bent, president of the club. Games were played and refreshments served after the business session.

SAYS CUTTING S. MAIN TREES WOULD BE SUICIDAL

Editor Register: Dr. Blair ought to be thanked by the community at large for calling attention, in his letter published in Monday's Register, to the possibility that some of the wonderful trees on South Main street might be cut down to allow South Main street to be widened. I doubt if anything could be done to the southern part of the city that would give this section such a black eye as to cut down South Main street's trees and make that street look like one of the forlorn streets in some of Southern California's treeless towns.

In this country where there are so few trees, those towns which do have trees stand out from the others like gold from brick dust. Who in lovely Santa Ana where every prospect pleases because of its trees would care to live in the new sections of San Diego, for instance, where there is a tree for a mile and where the outlook is positively dispiriting and desolate at times? Cut down Santa Ana's trees and what in the world would be left of this town anyhow?

Everywhere I go in Southern California, from Santa Barbara to San Diego and over to San Bernardino and El Centro the folk have two comments to make about the city:

First, that Santa Ana is a pretty town. And what makes it pretty? Its trees, of course.

And second, that Santa Ana is the place where they put you in jail for just driving through the town. Denude Santa Ana of its trees and continue putting people in jail for speeding and all of us might just about as well charge off our local investments in real estate to profit and loss because they wouldn't be worth the powder to blow them up.

Perhaps some Santa Anans have noticed in the Literary Digest and other publications the nasty remarks made because some Florida towns cut down trees bordering streets so as to widen roads and enable more tourists to pass in a given minute. When the trees were cut down and the land assumed its naturally forsaken appearance the tourists went elsewhere and, consequently, the widened roads didn't carry even the former traffic. It is conceivable that much the same sort of thing might happen here.

Of all the silly, needless, suicidal things this town could do, the worst from every angle would, unquestionably, be to inaugurate a wholesale cutting down of trees on South Main street or anywhere else in the city for that matter.

Santa Ana's trees are just about the best asset that property in this town has. Cut them down and a lot of the property might become a liability.

RECEIVER FOR VANDERBILT'S PAPER NAMED

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Meredith P. Snyder, former mayor of Los Angeles, and president and general manager of the California Guaranty company, has been appointed receiver of the Illustrated Daily News, Vanderbilt paper here. Snyder was appointed by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, who heard the petition filed by Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc., Delmarware corporation, and holding company of the three tabloid newspapers established by Cornelius Vanderbilt jr.

The News, according to the petition, will continue publication, with Snyder, termed a "friendly receiver," in charge.

VANDERBILT APPEALS FOR PUBLIC SUPPORT

NEW YORK, May 4.—Charging that substantial aid for his newspapers had been held up by advices from New York banks that his family "thinks it best for my corporation to go into bankruptcy," Cornelius Vanderbilt jr. has called for the "courage and patience" of his advertisers, readers, creditors and staff workers.

Vanderbilt issued a statement through his counsel, Dudley Field Malone, after dispatches from Los Angeles and San Francisco had told of troubles encountered by the 23-year-old publisher in those cities.

Meredith P. Snyder, former mayor of Los Angeles, was appointed receiver for the Illustrated Daily News after an application for a receiver had been filed by Vanderbilt's agents. It was announced to the employees of the Illustrated Daily Herald in San Francisco that there were no funds on hand with which to meet the current payroll, but that there were more than enough outstanding accounts receivable to pay off employees. The workers then decided to continue publication until the supply of newsprint was exhausted in the hope that some last-minute development would clear up the financial situation.

Fifty Million Calls a Day

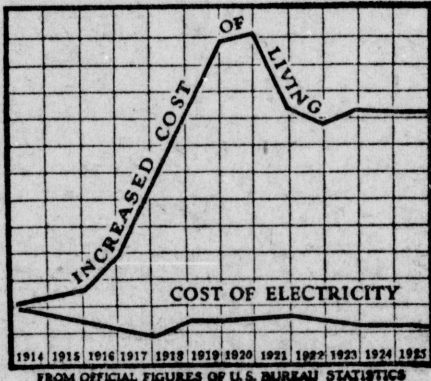

THE Edison Company serves over 500,000 consumers. In each home there is an average of 10 buttons or switches. That makes 5 million buttons.

Probably each button is used 10 times daily. That makes 50 million calls for service. In every case the response is instantaneous—whether you want to iron a handkerchief or move a train of freight cars.

To meet these calls $250,000,000 has been invested and you have one of the finest electric systems in the world. Yet the cost for service is lower than before the war while the average price of all other commodities is 65% higher.

Think of this the next time you press a button.

The Colorado River Project

By J. P. Baumgartner

FIFTH ARTICLE
I REALIZE, of course, that there is a limit to the patience and perseverance of newspaper readers, and that this series of articles has about reached that limit. However, as unusual interest in the series has been manifested, and as there is plenty of other matter in the paper for those who do not care to read further about the Colorado river project, I'm going to write at least this one more article for those who care to read it.

Possibly, but not probably, there will be one more after this, but I can at least promise that the series shall not be strung out into a typical case of "positively the last appearance."

THE TRIP of inspection of the river and its dam sites in which I participated was over fifteen hundred miles long. Starting from Santa Ana, we drove, via San Bernardino and Barstow, to Las Vegas, Nevada, in one day. The next day we visited Boulder canyon, only 45 miles from Las Vegas, but it seemed like a hundred miles. I never dreamed that men in automobiles would attempt to traverse such roads as that over which we drove twice that day—the last ten or fifteen miles before we reached the river. After doing this stunt, and noting the ease and nonchalance with which the drivers made it, in all kinds and conditions of cars, I would not be at all surprised or incredulous if Linn Shaw should come in some day and tell me he had chased a coyote straight up the side of Saddle Back, in his faithful old Chandler, and driven him into Lake Elsinore on the other side.

The next day we drove to Black canyon, 20 miles below Boulder; and after inspecting the dam sites there, instead of returning to Las Vegas, we proceeded down the river to Needles, making a side trip, on the way, to see the Bull's Head dam site, about 80 miles below Boulder—I'm not quite sure as to the distance, but believe it is 80 miles. Anyway, as the fall of the Colorado river is only about a foot-and-a-half to the mile, a dam of adequate height for practical purposes at either Black canyon or Bull's Head would back the water up through Boulder canyon and fill the same basin above Boulder that a dam at Boulder itself would fill, and would also fill immense basins below Boulder.

From Bull's Head, we went on down to Needles, keeping well in sight of the river most of the way and getting a good view of the great basin that would be filled by a dam at the Topock site below Needles.

THIS TOPOCK site was next in line for inspection, after we had spent the night at Needles. It is situated at a point about 15 miles down the river from the town of Needles, just a few hundred yards below the Santa Fe and the state highway bridges, which are very close together.

A dam at this point would necessitate the removal of the entire town of Needles, and some fifteen miles of the Santa Fe railway, including the bridge; and, of course, the state highway and its bridge also would have to be removed from the basin.

The Santa Fe is willing to move if the $15,000,000 it would cost shall be guaranteed. Also Needles is willing to move if a new town site shall be provided and the cost of removing, razing and rebuilding shall be forthcoming. Needles is down in a hot mosquito-ridden hole, and will be glad to get out on higher ground. I did not hear anything about the cost of removing the town, but of course it would be a heavy charge against the project.

In my judgment, there is hardly

The youngest orchestra in the city and perhaps in the state is the honor due the John Muir school kindergarten organization. The orchestra is composed of 19 little tots, under the direction of Miss Linda Mueller, kindergarten teacher.

The John Muir kindergarten class was organized the first of February. Many are the numbers played by the little tots.

STATE AID FOR SCHOOL PRINT
SHOP ASSURED

Courses of vocational training in printing have been assured in the Santa Ana polytechnic high school next year, when state aid, through the Smith-Hughes act, will be provided through authorization of J. C. Beswick, California supervisor of trade and industrial instruction.

This was announced today by T. E. Williams, print shop instructor here. A program to meet the requirements of the vocational course is to be worked out with Benjamin Johnson, assistant vocational supervisor, who is expected to visit here within a short time.

Beswick praised the work being accomplished in the high school print shop. Beswick, who recently made an inspection visit here, said in a letter to Williams:

"I wish to compliment you on the very fine piece of work that you have done this year and I am confident that you will enlarge your work next year more than you have during this past year, especially your vocational class in printing."

Four student publications, the Santa Ana Junior college, "Algor," year book and school forms are being printed in the school shop.

Under state aid, $720 is supplied for the printing department in the school. A course open to students planning to enter the printing trade, is planned. Not more than 10 students can be enrolled in each of the morning and afternoon classes. It is arranged for each student to spend three hours daily in the print shop and the remaining three hours studying the regular required school subjects in English, mathematics, history and science.

NELSON SPEAK
ON PROHIBITIONLight Wines, Beer Never Will Return to States,
Says District Attorney

Light wines and beer never will return to the United States despite the straw votes and "wet" propaganda, Alex P. Nelson, Orange county district attorney, declared last night in a talk before the Santa Ana junior college Y club, in the city association building.

Efforts to procure light wines and beer were branded as the opening wedge to undermine the nation's stand on prohibition.

"When two-thirds of the people write an amendment to the constitution, it will remain there. It is only true Americanism to obey the laws," Nelson said. "The enactment of the eighteenth amendment, I believe, marked the greatest advance this country has made in years."

Saloons Brought Prohibition
Nelson said that the saloons themselves had brought in prohibition, and he denied that the "dry" fanatics forced prohibition onto the nation.

For eight years, Nelson has been connected with the Orange county prosecutor's office and he is in touch daily with liquor violations, but he said that since prohibition, arrests for drunkenness are fewer and crime in general has decreased.

"Before prohibition, 60 per cent of the Mexican families were depending on the county for support during the last few days of each week because the father had squandered most of his check on booze," Nelson declared. "Now they are driving around in automobiles."

Business Man Blamed
The district attorney charged the business man, who thinks that his liberty has been infringed upon, with supporting the bootlegger. "It's not the drunkard nor the bum that causes the difficulty, in enforcing prohibition," he said.

Nelson is confident that by the education of the masses, public opinion will be won over and the people will rise up to demand the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

COMMUNITY CHEST
PLANS DISCUSSED

Representatives of participating agencies in the Santa Ana and Tustin Community Chest met this morning with Roland Dye, secretary of the chest organization, for a conference on estimated requirements of funds to carry on the work for the remainder of the current year.

Campaign plans for the coming drive also were discussed by social workers.

Today's meeting was held in advance to the general board meeting, set for 8:30 tomorrow morning, when distribution of funds, readjustment of appropriations to meet requirements and campaign plans for the 1927 Community Chest campaign will be discussed.

ONE OF DRAMATIC MOMENTS
IN MUSICAL PRESENTATION

Sally Lee Scales, as Mabel, and A. J. Garroway, as Frederic, pirate apprentice, in the second act of "Pirates of Penzance," comic opera, which is to be presented in Santa Ana Tuesday and Wednesday nights, May 11 and 12, by the Orange County Choral union. Frederic has just learned through a queer trick of fate, that he was apprenticed to the pirate band until he should have reached his twenty-first birthday instead of until he should have become 21 years old. He was born on February 29, in leap year, and, instead of being free to quit the band, and marry Mabel, he must return and serve some 70 years. Frederic and Mabel sing their grief in a duet which should prove one of the big vocal hits of the presentation.

JUNIOR DIVISION SCHOOL EXAMS
HOLDS HOPE OF ARE INDORSED
ANNUAL FIESTA BY P.-T. A. HEAD

Directors of the Junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce have not given up the idea of sponsoring an annual outdoor attraction in this city, although plans for holding the "Fete Grotesque," a fun parade, based on the New Orleans mardi gras, have been abandoned for the present year, it was revealed at the meeting of the board members held Monday noon in a downtown cafe.

The discussion was brought about by a letter from Secretary George Rayner, of the senior division of the chamber, in which he stated that several business men in the city had expressed themselves in favor of such an annual event, in the arranging of which the secretary pledged the co-operation of the senior body. An interview, which appeared recently in The Register, quoting Earl Busby, manager of a Santa Ana hotel, in which he urged the adoption of a Spanish fiesta as the annual event also was read.

Want "Fete Grotesque"
The majority of the directors declared themselves in favor of sticking to the original plan for a "Fete Grotesque," even though the plans had been abandoned for this year and in the face of the "threat" of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce to stage such an event before the Santa Ana chamber could put it on.

Franklin West explained that the Santa Ana post, American Legion, would be solidly behind the Junior chamber in arranging the fun parade for next year but that the directors of the post felt the organization was entitled to the full support of the city in arranging the annual Armistice day parade, which is to be held this year in Santa Ana.

E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist reported that excellent results had been obtained by the committee in charge of arranging the entertainment for the Junior division's trade trip, which is to be held May 19. An all-brass orchestra has been secured and Eddie Viera and Doris Dysart will do the dancing. The city board of trustees will be asked to ride in an automobile at the head of the parade.

M. S. Robinson and Stanley Clem were named opposing captains in the membership campaign, to begin Viewed in official circles as a preliminary move towards creating a joint flood control district, comprising the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino, which, when fully organized, would be in position to apply for state aid, is an inspection trip, made today by Paul Bailey, deputy state engineer, and the engineering advisory board to the Santa Ana river corporate investigations, to the watersheds of the Santa Ana river basin.

The advisory board is composed of one engineer, appointed by each of the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino, to work with the division of engineering and irrigation in preparing a co-ordinated plan for the conservation of water and control of floods on the Santa Ana river. The members of the board are J. B. Lippincott, representing Orange county; A. L. Sondergeger, Riverside county, and George S. Hinkley, of San Bernardino county.

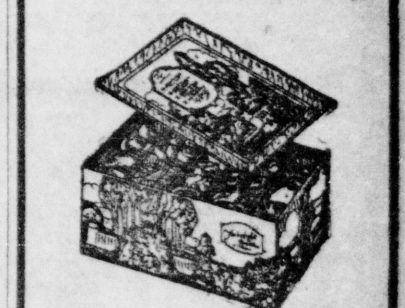

Survey Reservoir Sites.

Inquiries made at the office of Col. S. H. Finley, county supervisor, who has been actively identified with flood control and water conservation, brought out that the division of engineering and irrigation of the state department of public works has had a survey party working on the tributaries of the Santa Ana river for several months, surveying possible reservoir sites. The results of these surveys, Colonel Finley stated, will be reviewed in the field by Deputy State Engineer Paul Bailey and the engineering advisory board, looking forward to submitting a complete report later in the year.

This report, containing findings and recommendations from an engineering standpoint, will go to the state engineer for his approval, following which it will be referred to the various county boards for such action as may be deemed necessary.

More For Organization.

In this connection, Colonel Finley ventured the belief that if the recommendations of the engineering experts meet with the unanimous approval of the counties concerned, there would be a move toward organizing a joint flood control district. Such a district, armed with facts and figures, could go before the state legislature with a request for financial assistance in effecting necessary improvements.

WEST END THEATER

Bootlegging — America's huge criminal industry, until now carefully disregarded by motion picture producers because of the necessity of taking sides was chosen as plot material for Rod LaRocque's new star picture, "Red Dice," which is showing at the West End theater.

The activities of a tremendous bootlegging ring have been realistically represented in the story, which was prepared for the screen under the supervision of Jeanie Macpherson. Miss Macpherson spent most of a recent visit to New York studying the methods of big bootleggers, the federal officers assisting her to obtain data by permitting her to go on board a revenue cutter to chase rum-runners, and to be present at the raiding of a huge liquor warehouse. Although she describes several of her experiences as "too melodramatic for the movies" she obtained much valuable material for "Red Dice," which is a frank presentation of the situation confronting America today.

In collaboration with Douglas Dady, Miss Macpherson adapted "Red Dice" from Octavus Roy Cohen's thrilling story. Marguerite De La Motte is featured opposite Rod LaRocque, and both acquit themselves creditably. The picture is novel and thrilling and fully deserves the success it achieved. The supporting cast is excellent.

YOST THEATER

Of unusual interest to Yost theater patrons is the appearance tonight and tomorrow of Mabel Harper, diminutive comedienne, whose fun-making propensities and scintillating personality have earned for her the spontaneous and well deserved sobriquet of "the funbeam of vaudeville." Selecting as a medium of expression a number of specially written songs and a hand-full of sparkling banter, this charming miss in her own inimitable way, conclusively demonstrates the art of developing chuckles of appreciation into healthy roars of laughter, and with the aid of her own handsome head of bobbed curls, offers several variations in this well known form of head-dress, nicely calculated to send the most blasé theater-goers into paroxysms of mirth.

Gordon Eldrid is one of vaudeville's best known facecomers. Many of the most laughable comedy skits seen in the two-a-day in recent years owe their being to him. His newest farce is called "Tit for Tat." Eldrid and his company of three women, keep moving as farce must move, at top speed.

Mac and Daley, whirlwind skaters, always keep a couple of steps ahead of the parade. Whether the different numbers they are introducing become popular with skating devotees next year, vaudeville audiences will vote that their program is interestingly entertaining.

The Aeroplane girls, whose physical beauty is a matter of comment, will be seen with their sensational aerial exploits.

"The Girl from Montmartre," a picture featuring Maj. Lewis Stone, is the Yost's screen attraction.

TEMPLE THEATER

"Confusion," now playing at the Temple theater, is one of the cleverest comedies that the Connell Players have offered here to date. The specialties between the acts are of the type that are to be seen in any high class vaudeville circuit. In fact, the entire program, which includes the famous Paramount orchestra, can be classed as fine entertainment.

Tonight Manager Connell expects the Temple theater will be sold out early as his super "country store" will be presented with its big surprise gifts that are worth many times the price of admission. Billy Murray, famous for his novel presentation of "country stores" will be in charge. Billy is always good for many laughs during the show and makes many friends.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Advance promises of thrills in motion pictures oftentimes are not fulfilled, but "The Bat" is one photoplay that lives up to the predictions made for it. The screen version of the famous mystery melodrama closes at the West Coast-Walker tonight after a three-day run, and if the screams, laughs and gasps of the audiences constitute a criterion, "The Bat" is one of the most entertaining photoplays ever made.

There is not a dull moment in "The Bat." There is action every minute—action that keeps spectators on the edge of their seats. Although the general plot of the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood play has been followed, Roland West, who made the picture has introduced so many new complications that even those who saw the stage "Bat" are completely bewildered.

The West Coast-Walker theater asks members of the audience to refrain from disclosing "The Bat's" identity to their friends who have not seen the picture.

The mystery picture's "all-star" cast justifies the praise. Some of the eminent players are Jewel Carmen, Jack Pickford, Emily Fitzroy, Robert McKim, Eddie Gibson, Tullio Carminati, Andre de Beranger, Arthur Houseman, Lee Shumway, Charles Herzinger, and Sojin Kamlyan.

The West Coast presentation, "The Cat's Meow," is a Fanchon and Marco for this week. It is undoubtedly the most novel and entertaining act these two artists have yet produced. The Novelle brothers, who are featured, are a comedy sensation. They do a cat flirtation on the roof, a very clever "Felix" number, and do a great tumbling act while playing violins.

Junior Division Holds Hope of Annual Fiesta

May 10 and conclude May 15, a drive to be held in conjunction with the senior division.

After bids from several local printing establishments had been read, in which figures were given for the publication of "The Boomer," the junior division's official organ, the directors voted to continue with the present mimeographing firm.

Good Program Arranged

The chairman of the entertainment committee for the next meeting stated that an attractive program was being arranged. The attendance is expected to be good as the proposals to be voted upon this month for the purpose of purchasing park sites will be the subject for discussion following the snappy program. A special invitation was issued to Horace Head, S. J. Jackson and others interested in the matter to be present and express their views.

The secretary was instructed to invite the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce to have representatives present as guests at the meeting next Monday night.

Santa Ana's Greatest Thrill in 5 Years!

Everybody Suddenly Saw the Treasure in Main Street

THE animation of Main Street today is the greatest sensation Santa Ana has experienced in five years. And it is all so natural, so obviously sound, that one wonders that there should be an element of surprise.

Main Street IS the MAIN STREET, the principal artery of traffic for all Southern California to the Harbor and San Diego, a fact sufficient in itself to develop Main Street. And its practical development is not limited either north or south.

The situation today on Main Street is this: Probably two or three empty locations rentable; property owners standing ready to build, alter, or provide in any way for incoming tenants; a greater than ever tendency among shoppers to patronize Main Street merchants who are so obviously alive to their opportunities.

With abundant spring rains, good crops in prospect, the tourist trade coming back, and unmistakable signs of a wonderful Autumn development beginning about September, Main Street and those gifted with vision along its borders, are in an enviable position.

The Colorado River Project

By J. P. Baumgartner

A possibility that the Topock site will be utilized, but undoubtedly it has been and to some extent still is being considered.

FROM NEEDLES we went to Blythe, where we saw the Palo Verde valley and mesa and the experimental aqueduct works of the city of Los Angeles. Perhaps this is as good a place as any to redeem my promise, in an earlier article of this series, to give more particulars about the proposed aqueduct. And this I can do with more authority and, I believe, with greater accuracy than may have characterized some of the other material of which I have written; for Mr. E. A. Bayley, assistant engineer of the Department of Water and Power, City of Los Angeles, and in charge of the aqueduct surveys, was with us on our trip and showed me the works at Blythe and told me all about the surveys.

WHEN THE Colorado river proposition first began to take form, Los Angeles made preliminary surveys covering in a general way the southeast portion of the state. All suitable intakes for an aqueduct were investigated along the river, from Parker, Arizona, south to the international boundary line. Surveys were carried out from most of these possible points of intake, with a view towards determining the influence of advantageous routing from these points on the river to Los Angeles.

Resulting from this investigation, the point of intake lying approximately 16 miles north of Blythe was selected as being the most advantageous. This is due largely to the fact that in that locality there exists a large gravel deposit which extends along the river bank for a distance of several miles, and makes possible the construction of an infiltration gallery, which will permit the seepage of clear water from the Colorado river into the gallery in quantities sufficient to take care of the immediate needs of the city of Los Angeles.

This gallery—I call it that because the engineer did—is just a big ditch, about 50 feet wide and 10 feet deep and is to be two miles long. It was excavated to a length of about 300 to 400 feet when we were there and was full of comparatively clear water, the water standing at the level of the river, about 300 feet away.

This experimental gallery is to be excavated to a length of two miles, and giant pumps are to be installed to test or measure the inflow of water—like a well—to see how much water can be pumped out without lowering the water level. By this means it can be determined how long, wide and deep a ditch will be required to give Los Angeles 1500 second feet of water.

FROM the end of the infiltration gallery it is proposed to carry the water in a canal around the lower edge of the Palo Verde mesa to the first pumping plant, where the water will be pumped onto this mesa and carried easterly across the Chuckawalla valley to a second pumping plant, where the water will again be lifted. Continuing in this manner through grade canals and lifts alternating with one another, the water finally reaches Shaver's summit, at an approximate elevation of 1700 feet above sea level. From this latter point, gravity conduit, consisting of canals and tunnels, can be constructed to Los Angeles.

At the present time it is impossible to give any definite height or exact location of lifts, as these will vary with the selection of grades. High lifts mean steeper and therefore cheaper conduits and tunnels, while low lifts mean larger and more expensive construction. A study is being made at the present time to determine the economic balance between lifts and grades.

DURING the past year two new routes for the aqueduct have been suggested. First, the LaRue gravity route, which proposes an intake at Bridge canyon, from which the water would flow through a 72-mile tunnel to a point near the Colorado river, just below Topock. The river crossing would have to be made by a steel siphon which would be of such length and head that it would make an extremely expensive siphon to construct.

Second, a proposed route from Black canyon has been suggested by Mr. Paul Bailey, deputy state engineer, which provides for an intake at Black canyon. From this intake the water would be conducted in a southwesterly direction to the San Geronimo pass, passing near Searchlight, Nevada, and Ludlow, California. This route is under preliminary survey at the present time, but has not progressed far enough to permit the laying of any grade lines or making estimates thereon.

As this article is already too long for a single installment, and I haven't yet told about the trip to El Centro, Yuma, the Laguna dam, the Imperial Irrigation district intake, the flood protection levee, etc., I fear I shall have to write just one more—positively the last—article for tomorrow or next day.

FOEMEN CROSS SWORDS OVER BOULDER DAM

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Arizona would profit very little from a dam at Boulder canyon, and is fully able to protect its own interests in the Colorado river basin without a compact with other states, or by the aid of federal legislation, H. S. McCluskey, secretary to Governor G. W. P. Hunt, of Arizona, declared in an address here today.

"The Swing-Johnson bill, which California politicians have been endeavoring to railroad through congress, has been proposed in an effort to deprive the state of Arizona of the natural heritage that spells her future growth and prosperity," McCluskey said.

"What California needs in the way of water, we believe a fair proposition has been offered to her by Arizona. What California needs, Arizona can give her in a fair manner and at a fair price, as far as power is concerned."

McCluskey's speech was delivered before a large audience of Southern California clubwomen, members of the Friday Morning club.

His remarks were attacked by Joe Crail, speaking in behalf of Los Angeles.

"The Colorado river does not belong to Arizona, as claimed by the governor's representative, but to the U. S. government, for use of those states that need the water," he said.

Arizona is standing in the way of developing this stream and utilizing its waters, because it has not the population at this time that needs it. Southern California needs the Colorado river water and power, and with the aid of the government, will get it."

Charles E. Scott, representing the Imperial valley, told of the "constant flood menace" in that territory from Colorado river waters, and pleaded for support of the Boulder canyon project and the all-American canal.

chosen were Frank Mason, Ted Craig, J. A. Leuzinger, J. R. Collins, W. D. Shaffer, E. F. Hurst, C. C. Kinsler, S. F. Thigpen and E. H. Peterkin. The only business coming before the body at the last meeting was the matter of renewing membership in the county council. Expenses of the chamber to be confined to the membership dues of $1 per month and it is understood that Secretary Kinsler is to serve without compensation.

Mrs. Joseph Smith, 215 South Flower street, last week received the news of the sudden death of her mother, Mrs. Robert Olsaps, at the family home at Corbin, Ky.

Mystery seems to surround the approaching marriage of Miss Gladys Paschal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paschal, of this city, to Roy L. Hardin, well known oil well man, also of this city. A marriage license was issued to them in Santa Ana on Friday of last week, but it is said the marriage is not to occur until later this week. Mrs. Hardin is in the employ of the Shell Oil company and he and his bride will make their home in Fullerton.

F. E. Bowman is making extensive improvements to his home at 208 South Poplar street, having put on a large addition and otherwise adding to the appearance of the place by a coat of paint.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peterkin left Friday for a motor and fishing trip to Arrowhead lake. Mr. Peterkin's sister, Mrs. Crockett Riley, of Los Angeles, is staying in the home during their absence with her mother, of Orange, who is just recovering from an illness.

Being education week, education was the theme of the Friday luncheon of the Lions club. A talk on education was given by W. E. Fanning, principal of the Brea grammar schools. A report of the county touching on plans for the county convention which is to be held in San Francisco during the third week in July, was read by Secretary George Henigan. Orange county clubs have been assigned the story of the missions as their part in this production and 24 of their number will appear in the dress of the red man, while an equal number will don the picturesque garb worn by the Mexicans during the early history of the state. Several Brea Lions will take part in the pageant. May 17 has been set aside as Lions day at the Orange show, to be held in Anaheim from May 13 to 23.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

A train of tank cars containing rubber latex on a United States Rubber Company Plantation

Answering some more questions about the United States Rubber Company's Rubber Plantations

Q—When did the United States Rubber Company first start to grow its own rubber?

A—In 1911 the company planted 14,000 acres, or about 22 square miles in Sumatra. This represented then and still does, the largest planting operation completed by any one company in a single year.

As new property has been acquired the work has gone steadily forward until today the company has 136,000 acres, approximately 60% of which is already planted.

Q—Does it take long to grow a rubber tree?

A—It takes about 4 to 6 years from the time a seedling is planted until a tree is ready to be tapped, and its initial yield is only small. Clearing the jungle, removing stumps, draining the land, breaking ground, growing seedlings from selected seeds, budding, grafting, transplanting and carefully tending the young plants, to say nothing of constructing roads, railways, wharves, storage tanks, and buildings to house power plants, equipment, and employees in a wild tropical country—all take time and money.

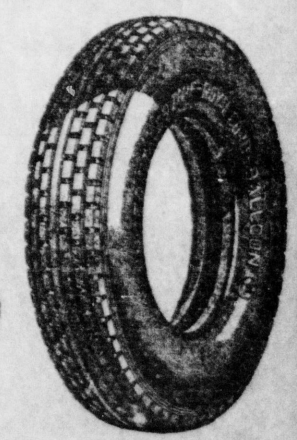

Q—Why did the United States Rubber Company make this investment?

A—Because it foresaw the time coming, when in the interest of greater economy and better and more uniform quality it would be advisable for it to know all there was to know about rubber growing, and to be producing a considerable portion of its own rubber. Recent events have justified this farsighted policy, and every man who buys a United States Tire or any other United States Rubber Company product is today benefiting by it.

Q—Is the United States Rubber Company's Plantation well regarded by authorities on rubber?

A—Yes, Herbert Ashplant, the British Rubber Mycologist of Southern India, in his report entitled "Recent Developments in the Rubber Planting Industry," refers to the United States Rubber Company Plantation at Kisan, Sumatra, as follows: "Of all the areas visited, none produced so much useful information. Kisan, the headquarters of these plantations, has become the Mecca of all planters who wish to keep abreast of recent rubber research. It is astonishing to find how many of the familiar problems of rubber planting have been satisfactorily settled during the last few years by the researches of the scientific staff."

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

ON THE WAY TO THE ROOM ASSIGNED TO HIM, THE PALMER WAS MET BY ROWENA'S MAID, WHO INFORMED HIM THAT HER MISTRESS WISHED TO SPEAK WITH HIM. HE WAS INFORMED THAT IVANHOE, BEING RETURNING FROM PALESTINE, ROWENA SAID, "WOULD TO GOD THAT HE WERE HERE TO BEAR ARMS IN THE APPROACHING TOURNEY."

OFFERING THE PILGRIM THE GRACE CUP AND ALMS, ROWENA THANKED HIM, AND HE WAS CONDUCTED TO A DINING ROOM BETWEEN THAT OF THE JEW AND SWINEHERD. ARISING EARLY NEXT MORNING, THE PALMER QUIETLY AWAKENED THE JEW. "FEAR NOT," SAID THE PALMER, "I COME AS YOUR FRIEND, BUT THE OLD MAN TREMBLED WITH FEAR."

"LAST NIGHT," SAID THE PALMER, "I OVERHEARD THE TEMPLAR ORDER HIS MUSLIM SLAVES TO SEIZE AND CONDUCT YOU TO THE CASTLE OF PHILIP DE MALVOISIN OR TO REGINALD FRONT-DE-BOEUF." THE OLD MAN, TERRIBLY FRIGHTENED, BEGOT OF THE PALMER TO SAVE HIM. WAKING THE SWINEHERD, THE PALMER SAID, "CURTH, UNDO THE POSTERN GATE AND LET US OUT."

CURTH SURPRISED TO HEAR OF THE JEW AND PALMER DEPARTING TOGETHER AND IN SO STEALTHY A MANNER, REFUSED TO MOVE FROM HIS ROUGH BED. THE PALMER THEN STOOD OVER HIM AND WHISPERED SOMETHING IN CURTH'S EAR AND THE SWINEHERD STARTED UP AS IF ELECTRIFIED. WITH GREAT ALACRITY HE HASTENED TO UNDO THE POSTERN GATE, MOUNTING THE MULES, WHICH CURTH BROUGHT FORTH. THE PALMER AND MONEY-LENDER DEPARTED.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Tablecloths of Old England, banquets of twenty courses were served with only one knife and fork to a guest. It was customary for the diners to wipe their table weapons upon the cloth for the next course.

But Today!

It is hardly necessary today to warn against using the table napery for a towel, but some benighted souls do dip the napkins in the finger bowls and remove the towels to the wash. Atrocious habit—nobody who knows anything at all about the face at a dining board. Those who can't eat without becoming smeared should stay home and practice!

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

If life held nothing more Than laughter and mirth and love, A welcoming kiss at the door And the skies, with the stars above, An occasional hour of peace, When the striving and jarring cease, We should still press on through the years, In spite of their pain and their tears.

If life held only these: The voice of a little child, The touch of a summer breeze, The roar of a tempest wild, The fleeting charm of a dream, A garden, a running stream, In spite of the cares which pile, It would still be a thing worth while.

QUEER QUIRKS NATURE

By Arthur N. Pack, President, The American Nature Association

Thousands of years before the first stone hatch, bound with rawhide to a branch and wielded by some lusty fellow of long ago, chipped out a deep scar in the base of some lofty tree until it fell, the beaver with his chisel-shaped incisors had found out how it should be done.

And ages before men with walls of rock and concrete had built ponds and canals, the same wise animal had dammed his streams and was rafting the timber which he had felled to the point where he wished to use it.

BEAUTY CHATS

Marle G. J.—Irregular features and open them carefully with a need loosely wed hair as a peroxide of hydrogen. But no matter what sort of treatment is used on the blisters, give your whole system a chance to throw off the toxic condition that is really the cause of the trouble.

John G. B.—A red nose is sometimes induced by wearing glasses that press upon the nose too heavily, or from tight clothes that interfere with the circulation. If your spectacles cause occasional change to eyeglasses occasionally, and also notice if your collar bands bind you. Sometimes men without realizing it pull neckties until they tighten them around their throats in order to get at the correct effect with their ties in the front. Digestive disturbance will also account for a red nose.

Speaking!

Of a new novel called "Show Business," by Thyrza Santer Winslow. Helen lived in Medina, Mo., and wanted to "get out." Got a job in the "Fringes," where, we read, "she played the Johns" with finesse. "Helen was no prude and was neither adverse to cold bottles nor hot birds; she sometimes sat on the laps of appreciative papas; she could take kisses or leave them alone. But she decided that girls who got into movies with men were saps and preserved their moral integrity." Motor cars, apartments, yachts, diamond tiaras flit through the pages with surprising rapidity in this day when every "Fringes" press agent warbles about the girls spending their evenings crocheting and making fudge.

HOLLYWOOD!

By JACK JUNGMEYER NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—Corliss Palmer has changed her name to Violet Buckingham. The tall, blond protegee of E. V. Brewster, publisher, hopes thus to drop the curtain finally upon what she terms "the undesirable publicity" which linked them across many newspaper front pages, and which has proved a handicap in the screen career to which she aspires.

The new name was announced at a Hollywood tea by Brewster, who explained that it was selected because "Buckingham suggests strength, dignity and aristocracy, and Violet denotes gentleness and sweetness."

Miss Buckingham has thus far appeared in several small picture parts and seems to chafe at the slowness of her progress toward expected stardom.

Belle Bennett, whose title role in "Stella Dallas" is one of the striking performances of movie history, staked her entire future on that part. Had she not secured it, she has recently confided, she was prepared to renounce pictures completely after years of discouraging effort.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIFTH SUPERVISORIAL DISTRICT

I ANNOUNCE MYSELF AS A CANDIDATE FOR SUPERVISOR OF THE FIFTH DISTRICT AND HEREBY SET FORTH MY PLATFORM AS FOLLOWS: I BELIEVE THAT EVERY EFFORT SHOULD BE MADE TO CONSERVE WATER AND BUILD THE BOULDER DAM; THAT NEWPORT HARBOR SHOULD BE IMPROVED; THAT THE SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO-ELSIOR ROAD SHOULD BE BUILT BY THE COUNTY; I BELIEVE IN ECONOMY, BUT NOT AT THE EXPENSE OF THE PROGRESS OF THE COUNTY AND I WOULD ENCOURAGE AND ASSIST ALL ROAD IMPROVEMENT DISTRICTS AND TRY TO CONSTRUCT SOME PERMANENT ROAD EACH YEAR.

The County should construct a Patriotic Auditorium, sufficiently large to house all conventions, and dedicate it to the memory of the soldiers of all wars.

The County Fair should have the support of all, and a permanent home should be secured.

The Supervisors should scrutinize closely all subdivisions and maps along our shore line and protect the people's interests in the same so that the public beaches should not be "gobbled" up for private use.

The Horticultural Commissioner should be given every assistance necessary to control the fruit and walnut pests of the County, and a strict inspection and quarantine should be maintained at all times.

I am a native of California and have made my home in Orange County for 25 years. I have always taken an active interest in public affairs, have represented the Tustin Chamber of Commerce in the Associated Chambers of Commerce for many years, serving on the Good Roads Committee of that body during the construction of our paved road system.

I helped organize the Farm Bureau and acted as Director at Large for that body for the first year.

I was Supervisor of the Fifth District from 1918 to 1922 inclusive. During my term of office, I was instrumental in construction of about eight miles of paved road, to-wit: East Seventeenth street from the City Limits of Santa Ana to Newport Avenue; Fairview Road from near Green-ville to the old Fairview Hotel site; Edinger Street from Main Street to Bristol Street; Fourth Street from the City Limits to Tustin Avenue; Lyon Street from First Street to McFadden Street; Maybury Street from First Street to Fourth Street; one mile on the San Juan Hot Springs Road, and Tustin Avenue from First Street to Seventeenth Street. I received some assistance, financially, from the abutting property owners and from the Auto license fund of the First District. Also, several miles of good gravel roads were constructed through the District.

I helped establish the present method of road construction of the County Highway System, helped establish the County Library and took a live interest in the affairs of the entire County.

I was a Volunteer in the Spanish American War and the Philippine Insurrection, serving as Sergeant of Battery A, California Heavy Artillery, and also served as First Lieutenant of Company L, California National Guard.

I farmed for several years on the Irvine Ranch, also on the O'Neill Ranch at El Toro. Having disposed of my farming interests, I am now raising oranges and walnuts in the Tustin section.

I am so situated as to be able to devote all the time necessary to the County's affairs.

Respectfully,

H. A. WASSUM

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of the old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing "natural regularity." It never grips, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

SPEAKER EXPOSES SECRETS OF U. S. AIR SERVICE, THEN PUBLICLY REBUKES SCRIBE

Secrets of aviation developed by the army air force at McCook field were revealed to members of the Santa Ana Air club last night, but the young man who did the revealing, a press agent for the Douglas Aircraft factory, Santa Monica, publicly rebuked a reporter for taking notes of what was said. Consequently the deep, dark secrets of military aeronautics in the United States cannot be given to the public through the press.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Haakon H. Hammer, president of the Pacific Air Transport company, which organization will operate mail and commercial planes between San Francisco and Seattle. Captain Hammer's speech was pronounced very interesting by the "bugs on aviation." If he were a betting man, he stated, he would place a wager on Lieutenant Commander Byrd to be the first to fly across the polar seas and determine if land exists there.

Has Better Equipment

Byrd has better equipment than Captain Wilkins, another polar adventurer, at the present time in Alaska with airplanes to make the flight, and therefore has the better chance of success, according to Hammer. He did not venture a guess as to the chances of the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition, using the dirigible Norge.

Hammer was with Amundsen in his drift across the polar seas several years ago. Because of the absence of newspaper correspondents, the expedition was not given much publicity he added, and few persons knew that 21 flights were made toward the pole at that time. Hammer deplored the fact that the polar expeditions were hooked up with press associations.

"Newspaper contracts are a bad thing because something sensational almost must happen in order to make the expedition pay its expenses," in his opinion.

China and the United States are the world laggards in the development of commercial aviation, he declared. The only subsidy which is in the form of mail contracts; therefore members of air clubs and aviation enthusiasts in general should patronize the air mail as much as possible, Hammer stated.

Hammer spoke of the military aviation equipment of the Chinese army at the time he made a world tour several years ago, gathering data concerning the development of flying. The chief of the air service, he said, was Maj. Wu Feng, whose chief qualification for the job was the fact that he could speak French very fluently. The equipment consisted of an obsolete Spad type machine, but the chief of the air service was wise enough to know that his knowledge of French was not sufficient to enable him to fly the plane.

The mechanical staff consisted of three or four Russian refugees. When the enemy advanced, the Spad would be trundled to a strategic position and the engine started. The roar of the "mighty monster of the air" would throw terror into the hearts of the advancing forces and the entire army would be put to rout, he said.

Flays Newspaper Reporters

Hammer said the first message ever sent by air mail was that particular olive branch that Noah received from the dove he sent out after the deluge. He described reporters who tried to make out that air mail flying was a new thing as not making a proper effort to get the proper background for their stories. Instead of comparing the air mail to the pony express, he compared it to the carrier pigeon routes of the Napoleonic wars, when a single message would net the owner of the bird $500 in postage charges.

Joseph Skidmore, vice commodore, spoke concerning Schopenhauer and women. Several reels of motion pictures treating on aviation were shown. Commodore E. H. Northland presided. The banquet was the first to be held by the new club and wives of the members were present.

L. B. Aviator May Try Polar Flight

If none of the present polar expedition is successful in flying to the north pole this year, Haakon H. Hammer, of Long Beach, may try to finance a flight from London via the north pole to Long Beach, Santa Ana and Los Angeles next year, he told members of the Santa Ana Air club at their banquet last night.

He predicted that within several years the north pole route would be used by air mail planes and that letters would come from the continent in three or four days instead of the weeks required now.

He did not give further details of his proposed London-north pole-Southern California dash.

NEW OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF CLUB SESSION

With the new corps of officers in charge, yesterday's meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, at St. Ann's Inn, was well attended, and members were interested in the ease with which Miss Louise Kaiser, recently installed as president, conducted the session. They found affairs going as smoothly as under the reign of Miss Martha Whitson, retiring president, and Miss Kaiser presiding with grace and dignity.

Few business matters were brought up for discussion, beyond the question of the club assuming the expenses of a child at the summer health camp, to be established after school is out, under the supervision of Mrs. Amelia Meagher.

21 Clubs to Co-operate

Mrs. Olive Lopez, who introduced the question, spoke of the co-operation of the 21 women's clubs in the county and their plan to present a series of three card parties in three different sections of the county, with seven clubs to sponsor each party. The next will be in Orange soon, at the Orange Woman's clubhouse.

Entertainment features of yesterday's program provided a rare treat, which was the more appreciated after Miss Kathleen Owens' enlightening talk on the approaching Choral Union production of "The Pirates of Penzance." For two of the principals of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan opera, Sally Lee Scales, who will sing the role of "Mabel," and Alex Garroway, who will sing "Frederic," gave one of their numbers. This was the famous one in which Frederic, believing himself to have reached the age of 21, and in a position to disregard his father's authority and marry Mabel, learns that he was born in leap year and hence has had but four birthdays.

Greeted by Applause

Their rendering of the duet was admirable, since each has an unusually fine voice and sings equally well in either solo or duo work. It called forth a storm of applause, to which Mrs. Scales responded by singing "My Hero," from "The Chocolate Soldier." The enthusiasm of the club was so marked that it is expected to result in practically a 100 per cent attendance at the opera, when it is presented in the high school auditorium, May 11 and 12.

Miss Esther Walker was accompanist for the singers.

The program was representative of those to come throughout the month of May, as the committee appointed by Miss Kaiser promises a succession of interesting events. This committee is composed of Misses Lorraine French, Peggy King, Ray Chase and Mrs. Ruth Taylor Scudder.

Eddie Miller, racing driver,

28 1/2 miles TO THE GALLON!

—bucking a fierce wind storm, thru 229 miles of mud, slush,
and a pouring rain.

MAKING the trip under most adverse circumstances—all of which were unexpected and unplanned for—and driving most of the way at a speed of from 32 to 40 miles an hour, which is admittedly uneconomical, Eddie Miller, former driver and mechanic on the famous Dusenbergs racing team, averaged twenty-eight and a half miles to the gallon with Macmillan Gasoline on a test trip from Long Beach to San Diego and return on February 11th.

Refusing to turn back when caught in the fierce storm which swept the Southland on that date, Miller was forced to drive through mud and water hub deep on several occasions.

But the mileage record which he established is even more phenomenal when it is considered that the car which he drove is more than eleven years old and contains a four cylinder Star truck motor taken out of the junk heap. It is a French Bugatti which Miller recently rebuilt for experimental purposes. Prior to the time he secured the car it had been salvaged from the bottom of the San Francisco Bay where it had been for four months following an accident.

No adjustments whatsoever were made on the machine either before, during or after the trip. And the next day, after the car had stood out in the pouring rain from 2 A. M. to 7 A. M., Miller stepped on the starter just once and the motor started immediately. "I have never used any gasoline that gave me more throttle response than Macmillan," he declared.

BILLY EVANS

DEBUT OF NEVERS

"The Babe looks good at the bat even when he strikes out."

That remark is often made as Ruth, after taking three healthy swings in vain, retires to the bench for the customary drink.

There is something inspiring in the out Ruth takes at a ball whether he hits a home run or misses it a mile.

Ernie Nevers, famous Stanford athlete, made his major league debut in a recent game against Cleveland. Southpaw Joe Shaute struck him out, yet Nevers impressed us with his batting power despite his failure to hit safely.

He didn't give the umpire a chance to call any. The first swing resulted in a long foul to left. On his next effort he sent a long fly to right that just failed to drop into the stands but it was also foul.

The third pitch was a fast ball, high and inside. He took a terrific wallop but missed and was out. He reminded you of the Babe, except that he bats right-handed.

SUBWAY DELIVERY

At college, Nevers was Stanford's star pitcher as well as fullback. He also was as proficient a batsman as pitcher. He won many of his important games through his hitting as much as his pitching.

Nevers is the ideal athlete, as far as physique is concerned, to be a successful pitcher. A six footer, the possessor of a powerful pair of shoulders, he gets plenty on the ball.

In college, and at present, Nevers is an underhand pitcher. His style is somewhat similar to that of Carl Mays, except that he doesn't get as low with his arm and body before delivering the ball.

During the spring training the St. Louis club had him experiment with a sidearm delivery, believing that he might prove more effective, due largely to the thought that he would develop better control.

Nevers still sticks to the underhand style and is a good prospect, his greatest fault, of course, being lack of experience.

SHORT LEG RECEIVED IN CAR CRASH 'MADE' ROLAND LOCKE SPRINTING CHAMPION, CLAIM

LINCOLN, Neb., May 4.—One short leg has made Roland Locke, Nebraska University sprinter, who has unofficially shattered two world's records, a great runner, rather than handicapped him.

The husky dash man, who unofficially has covered the century in 9 1/2 seconds and the 220 yards in 20.5 seconds, today explained that one of his legs was shorter than the other as result of an automobile accident, but that his enabled him to make even greater speed.

"When there is a turn in the track the short leg helps me in gaining greater speed around the curve," the smiling, but reticent runner told the United Press.

Locke, who has just emblazoned his name among the nation's list of great sprinters, is an unassuming sort of chap who plans to hang up his spiked shoes after he finishes his law course this year.

Even the lure of an exhibition tour abroad fails to make the Nebraska waver from his decision to toss athletic laurels away, and seek prominence as an attorney.

An attempt is being made now to have Locke's record breaking performance in the 220-yard dash—set last Saturday—made official.

UMPIRE OUSTED AS 'PARTY' AFTERMATH

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—As a result of a late night shooting affair at his Oakland home last Thursday, William Burnside, for three years an umpire in the Pacific Coast Baseball league, today was ousted from further duty. The action was announced by President Harry A. Williams.

The shooting followed a dinner party at Burnside's home, according to Oakland police. Burnside, when he guests home, met firm opposition from his wife. Argument proving futile, Mrs. Burnside seized the family revolver and shot holes in the rear tires of her husband's departing automobile, police said.

Utah-Idaho Loop Under Way Today

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 4.—Organized baseball is back in the Utah-Idaho region and will make itself known in three cities of these states today. Logan, Utah; Pocatello, Idaho, and Salt Lake City have home games while the visitors, respectively, are Twin Falls, Idaho Falls and Ogden.

COUNTY INDOOR LEAGUE SCHEME RECEIVES O. K.

Eight teams, recruited from the most able players in seven Orange County cities, are almost certain to face the barrier when the proposed new Orange County Indoor Baseball league begins its summer season schedule late this month or early in June.

Six communities—Santa Ana, Brea, Garden Grove, Laguna Beach, Orange and Anaheim—sent delegates to the discussion meeting at the T. J. Neal sporting goods store here last night and all were enthusiastic over the plan to organize.

Another meeting will be called shortly at which definite action probably will be taken.

Fulleton, one of the most active indoor baseball centers in the county, was not represented but is considered almost a certainty that the northern city will be anxious to land a franchise in the loop.

If Fulleton agrees to enter, it is probable that two teams will be made to represent Santa Ana. Thus, with Brea, Garden Grove, Laguna Beach, Anaheim and Orange in line, an eight-team league would be assured.

Representatives were of the opinion that Friday would be the best night for county league games. If such action is taken at the next meeting of the delegates, arrangements will be made to play Santa Ana City league contests Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Wednesday night is an open date under the current schedule.

PEEK'S MARKET IS 7-5 WINNER OVER PACIFICS

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, submerged under a record score last week, proved anything but a "weak sister" in the City Indoor Baseball league when it fought the fast Arnold Peek market team to a standstill for seven innings last night, only to lose in the last two rounds, 7 to 5.

Strengthened by the addition of several new men, the Pole-Climbers rallied in the seventh spasm, overcame a five-run lead and made it a real ball game at Lincoln park.

Williams, the big catcher of the Peek outcutter, broke the tie in the eighth with a terrific home run to deep left and the Meat-Cutters added another counter in their half of the ninth to make more sure of a win.

Walter Jordan, the young gunner of the Peek's, pitched shutout ball almost all the way. He had but one bad frame, the seventh, when singles by Price and "Red" Bickford, a couple of wild pitches, a base on balls to McDonald, a hit by Duncan, another wild pitch and Sweeney's timely blow that scored two, accounted for all the runs registered by the Pole-Climbers.

Carl Trusty, the southpaw Telephone company moundsman, held his opponents to five hits and fanned 10. He pitched fine enough ball to have turned in a victory.

Peek's scored a brace of runs in the second and pushed around another pair in the fourth. "Colonel" Berry, the long-legged Kentuckian, smashed out a homer in the fourth.

The Fluor Construction company and Southern Counties Gas company squads took over the game in the fifth. Wayne Nelson or Christenson will pitch for the Gas company with either Price or Talmadge scheduled to fork for the Fluors.

Yesterday's Hero—Jack Wisner of the Giants, whose neat pitching enabled the Giants to break their losing streak and shatter the Phils, 11 to 2.

The Reds worked a triple steal to score one of their runs in the fifth. The Indians beat the Browns, 3 to 1.

Ogden held the whip hand over Boston and Washington, with the aid of Goslin's homer, set down the Red Sox, 5 to 2.

The Robins retained the National League leadership when McGraw hurled a victory, this time a four to one advantage over the Braves.

Chicago's winning streak of five games was dislocated when Detroit bunched hits in the first two innings and won 3 to 1.

HARTMANFT TO FRESNO

FRESNO, Calif., May 4.—Glenn Hartmanft, formerly of Stanford, olympic discus thrower and shot putter, is now a resident of Fresno as representative for a cement company.

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Fidel LaBarba, flyweight champion of the world, will defend his ability but not his title against Emil Paluso in a 12 round no-decision fight here tonight.

It will be La Barba's last fight in this state before he defends his title, the State Athletic commission has ruled, and the little champion plans to make it one of his best.

Before he acquires the approval of the fans and the vote of the newspapermen present, however, the champion will have to ward off the blows of Paluso, which are credited with being the hardest possed by any flyweight today.

Paluso's ability to hit produces the element of doubt as to the result of the fight. There is little doubt in the mind of the boxing public that La Barba can outbox Paluso, but La Barba's ability to withstand a series of very punishing punches is somewhat questionable. He has never been knocked out but, as the Paluso clan say,—there is always a first time.

The title will not be at stake because both boys will weigh in over the flyweight limit of 112 pounds and the referee cannot give a decision if the bout lasts the

BEAR TRACKSTERS SET MARKS

These track stars have reason to smile. And this despite the fact that Leonard was defeated in the recent meet with Stanford. Hill established a new meet record for the pole-vault, clearing 12 ft. 11 3/4 in. Gerkin bettered the discus mark, tossing the saucer 146 ft. 9 in. Their performances were two of the outstanding features of the clash.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Discord and unfriendly feeling that have resulted from several international athletic meets lead to the opinion at times that cordial relations are not always fostered by competition in sports.

There can be little doubt, however, that a feeling of better understanding between the English speaking nations has been cultivated by athletic competition.

During the 1920 Olympic games in Antwerp a strong bond was affected between the American and British teams when they were forced to band together for their own protection against some of the Latin teams and the relations between the athletes of these two great nations have been most friendly ever since.

New Zealand athletic officials recently paid a fine tribute to Jack Scholz and Lloyd Hahn, two American track stars, who visited their country last winter.

Praise U. S. Athletes

They were praised in the following article appearing in the Wairapa Age, of New Zealand.

"The union of American states might well be termed the foster mother of New Zealand athletics. Duffy, Power, Barrer, Templeton, Kirksey, Merchant and Krogness—such names are dear to the memory of all New Zealand athletes, and serve to remind us that in the past decade the United States, by sending the cream of her talent to this Dominion, has done more to stimulate the growth of this branch of amateur sport than any other nation. We have now in our midst two new ambassadors from the mighty nation, Scholz and Hahn, making the fourth visit from American teams in 21 years."

The secretary of the New Zealand Amateur Athletic Federation had the following to say about the two athletes in a letter addressed to the A. A. U.

"Like Scholz, Hahn is an I am directed by the Council of the New Zealand Amateur Athletic association to express to your council sincere appreciation of your two American athletes, Messrs. Scholz and Hahn, and what they have done for us during their recent tour through this Dominion."

"These men are wonderful runners and are most assuredly entitled to be classified as the world's best."

Scholz had no opposition in this Dominion and it was necessary for our association officials to ask him to give big handicaps, even to our best men. Although it appeared impossible on paper for him to win, he however had no difficulty in doing so, and he registered times that were never expected.

"As regards Hahn, he was unfortunately as he met a runner in New Zealand who was considered almost the world's champion. So confident are the people of New

POLY SENIORS, SOPHS IN NEAR TITLE CONTEST

With the junior girls' baseball team virtually out of the running for the interclass title at the Santa Ana high school, the sophomores and seniors were to tangle today in a game that was expected ultimately to decide the championship.

Although another series must be played, the team winning today was conceded the edge as undefeated leaders in the playoffs.

The seniors romped over the junior class girls yesterday by a score of 16 to 11. Miss Evelyn Yount hurled for the seniors, shutting out the rival players five of the nine innings and allowing but 11 hits.

Six runs were scored by the seniors in the sixth inning which was their best period. That enabled them to press ahead from a 5 to 5 tie. High scoring for the seniors was credited to Miss Groover and Miss McWaters who tallied three runs each.

In the first game of the season last week, the sophomores, who clash with the seniors today, won from the juniors by the less impressive score of 8 to 5.

The box score of the senior-junior game follows:

EXPECT BENNY TO COME BACK WELTERWEIGHT

Big Purses, Inability to Make 135 Pounds Figure In Contemplated Change

NEW YORK, May 4.—Benny Leonard's return to the ring this summer—an event that is being taken for granted on information from several of his confidants—will scramble up the welterweight division more than it will affect the lightweight class.

There are two very good reasons to believe that if the retired lightweight champion returns to the ring he will come back as a welterweight. These reasons are—weight and money.

It will do no good to dig up the old pros and cons of the argument that Leonard hadn't been able to make the weight for two years before he retired from active competition.

There were secret weighings and such things, a betraying bulk of flesh around his belt and a recognized dislike of strenuous training that caused a belief he couldn't make 135 pounds.

But Leonard always insisted that he could make the weight when necessary and he ought to be the only one in the know.

Money Angle Big One

It cannot be disputed, however, that Leonard, after indulging in light training only for two years, would find it less difficult to get himself in shape to fight at 147 pounds even if the competition in the lightweight division would not require that he be too strong at 135 pounds.

The money angle is the big angle to Leonard, however. It is to all champions and it is not the fault of a business man.

If the New York Boxing commission follows precedent, Leonard will have to resume his profession as a challenger and as a challenger he could demand officially only 12 1/2 per cent of the receipts.

There are such things as two contracts put across without the knowledge of the commission, however, and it would be up to him to get the best terms possible.

On the assumption that he would follow the spirit of the rule and accept the challenger's percentage, Leonard would get much more for his end by fighting Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship than by trying to regain his lightweight title from Rocky Kansas.

Leonard Drawing Card

Kansas is a fine and deserving little fellow but he hasn't the following to draw the crowd. If he fought Leonard, it would be Benny who would draw the crowd and Benny is too good a business man to let a opponent draw 37 1/2 per cent of the receipts on his name and "rep."

There is this to be considered also. The lightweight championship would be little more than an annoyance to Leonard and the welterweight title would be a decided asset.

There is plenty of competition in the welterweight class and practically none in the lightweight division. It has to be assumed, of course, that Leonard has a good chance to beat Walker.

If Leonard fought Kansas and lost, he would have to change a lot of billboard signs that advertise him as the retired undefeated lightweight champion and that means a lot in a business way.

Proud of Record

Leonard always has been very proud of his record and on several occasions he told friends that Jack McCalliffe, the original, retired unbeaten champion was a smart bird and he was going to follow his example.

Against Walker, the former lightweight champion would have everything to gain and nothing to lose. It is doubtful that Walker could knock him out and if he did he would be the limit Leonard's superior cleverness ought to win for him. If he lost the decision it would mean nothing more than Benny Leonard, a welterweight, was beaten.

It will be interesting to hear the verdict of the boxing commission if Leonard asks for a license to return to competition. While Harmon and Joe Dundee are ahead of Leonard on the list of welterweight eligibles and the commission might ask him to beat Harmon or Dundee if he is to be considered as a welterweight challenger.

H. B. TRUSTEES ASKED TO NAME PLAY MANAGER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 4.—A supervised playground will be established here this summer if city trustees take action on a request made last night by the Parent Teacher association and the Women's club. Both of the organizations asked trustees to set aside $300 to pay a supervisor for a beach playground.

The supervisor would be at the playground six hours a day, six days in the week, for a period of three months, according to plans submitted by the P. T. A. and Woman's club. The trustees took no action on the matter.

A claim for $300 damages was entered with the board by Mrs. Gertrude Ward, of 1215 1-2 Olive avenue. Mrs. Ward, in a communication to the trustees, declared that damages were caused to her property by the paving of Olive avenue. She also stated that she had entered a protest at the time the street was paved. The matter was referred to City Attorney A. J. Thedick by Charles G. Boster, president of the board of trustees. Two city recorder reports were read. One of the reports was from former city recorder, Harry Stewart. The other report was from the present recorder, C. W. Warner.

Stewart's report covered the period from April 1 to April 19. Eighteen cases were heard by Stewart, who collected $148 in fines for violations of the motor vehicle laws and $150 for other law violations. One suspended sentence was meted out by Stewart and one man was jailed.

Judge Warner heard 23 cases during his days in office, collected $387 in motor vehicle fines and $90 in other fines. Warner sent two persons to jail.

New parking regulations on several streets were asked by the Woman's club and by business men. The business men and the Woman's club asked that diagonal parking be made the rule on the streets near their buildings to allow more cars to park. Horizontal parking is now in force.

City trustees, in considering the matter, declared that parking should be changed at the various churches so that more cars could park near the churches. The matter was referred to the traffic department of the police department for action.

Oust Deputy In Anaheim Office

ANAHEIM, May 4.—Inefficiency in office caused the removal of William A. Wallace, chief deputy in the public service department here, according to Mayor Perry W. Mathis. Wallace was in the employ of the city for nearly 12 years, filling the position of rate collector in the water and light department until recently, when that department was merged with the public service department with City Manager J. W. Price at his head.

According to Mayor Mathis, Wallace did not approve of the new system installed in his department at the time of the merger and has consistently refused to enforce the provisions of the ordinance adopted at that time.

Lake, the new appointee, has been a resident of this city for several years and at one time served under Wallace as a deputy. When the Metcalf administration assumed office two years ago, his resignation was demanded. His declaration to quit caused considerable comment at the time and resulted in his being ousted by the city trustees.

El Modenan Fined $50 On Old Charge

FULLERTON, May 4.—On a bench warrant issued last November, Francisco Valdez, of El Modena, was arrested Saturday and brought to Fullerton.

The police of El Modena had held the bench warrant as they believed that he would return again. As soon as he arrived in El Modena Saturday, he was arrested.

Valdez was fined $50 yesterday afternoon by Judge Story.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda, take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and leaving no flat gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the soured waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.—Adv.

WRIGHT QUILTS AS CONTROLLER OF BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 4.—The resignation of W. R. Wright as city controller and the opening of applications for the office of city engineer, featured the regular meeting of the board of trustees last night. Wright's resignation was tendered to the trustees near the close of the meeting. He also holds the office of city clerk and was formerly gas superintendent. The resignation was accepted.

Seven applications were read for the office of city engineer, which will pay a salary of $200 a month. Among the applicants were George H. Stofal, former government engineer of the island of Guam; Kenneth L. Godso, Montebello; G. G. Davis, El Segundo; Jack Colvin, Huntington Beach, and R. H. Hayward, Long Beach. The applications were placed on file, to be considered Thursday evening, when the trustees will meet again.

Discussion toward the close of the meeting became heated when W. R. Wharton, member of the board, criticized a red card sent out by City Advertising Agent C. G. Reynolds, operator of A. H. Reynolds collection agency, dispatched the cards to persons owing money, stating that his appointment to an official position in the city forced him to ask immediate payment of the bill. It was explained by Reynolds that he had agreed to quit the bill collecting business when he was made city advertising manager and that he had no intention of doing anything wrong and was merely trying to clean up the bills. Both City Attorney A. J. Thedick and Boster, chairman of the board, came to Reynolds' defense.

Wharton also brought up the subject of rereading two city ordinances which were read for the first time in the city auditorium and which, it was declared by L. W. Blodgett, former city attorney, may be found null and void if corrected. Wharton declared that it would be very easy to read the ordinances again and then the board would be certain of its ground. Mayor Boster declared that he did not believe that the ordinances would be contested. No action was taken on the matter.

Evidence of activity in the new city opened section of the oil field from Seventeenth to Twenty-third streets was noticed at the meeting last night, when several applications for permission to lay pipe lines were read by the trustees. A permit was granted to the Julian Petroleum corporation to lay a number of small pipes for conveying oil, water, gas and other necessities to its rig at Twenty-second street and Orange avenue. The California Petroleum corporation was issued a permit to install a grain elevator at the intersection of Second and Seventeenth streets. Both were granted.

An application for a permit by the Mutual Gasoline company, to lay a system of gas pipes in the newly opened territory was held up until Thursday night for further investigation. The application has been under consideration by the trustees for some time.

Fred Ott, life guard last year, was appointed life guard for the coming summer and also made a special police officer. Ott was recommended to the position by Chief of Police Jack Tinsley.

C. J. Yost, street superintendent, submitted a request for a rake to clean the beach, and for equipment to repair streets.

Bids for a gas engine for the city were opened. Mayor Boster asked that the new trustees had not had time to familiarize themselves with the matter. The bids were requested by trustees who went out of office last month.

Considerable discussion was held again over the placement of the band stand and whether the band should be sent to Anaheim for the opening of the California Valencia Orange show.

It was announced that action probably would be taken at the next meeting towards securing a bonded audit of the city books.

NEWPORT BEACH, May 4.—The resignation of the members of the old planning commission and the appointment of a new commission featured the meeting of Newport Beach city trustees last night. H. Cardozo Sloan, L. W. Briggs, J. P. Greeley, Eugene Fenelon and Harry H. Williamson were appointed on the new planning commission. The former commission was composed of W. T. O'Howell, R. C. Bell, A. H. Wilson, Fred W. Young and H. Cardozo Sloan.

The new chief of police, Capt. Adams, announced recently that he planned to arrest bathers who persisted in walking through the streets without a bath robe or some other similar covering. Steps were taken by the trustees last night to assist the chief in the enforcement of the present ordinance.

A committee was appointed by the city trustees to investigate a site for the location of a weather bureau station. It was suggested that a location on the Nimmo ranch about half way between Laguna Beach and Corona Del Mar, would be an excellent location for the station. The city trustees expressed their willingness to spend approximately $3000 for the station.

W. A. Leonard, new recorder, asked trustees to secure the city recorder books for him, declaring that the former recorder, A. H. Wilson, had refused to turn the books over to him. Wilson, according to reports, has refused to part with the books until they have been audited and he has been given a clean record.

A COMMITTEE'S JOB

As a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so may the strength of a chamber of commerce be tested. At least, this idea is carried to the 100 men who are listed among the committeemen of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, in a letter sent to them by Secretary George Raymer.

No successful chamber of commerce can be a one-man organization, and Secretary Raymer is well aware of that fact. The secretary, in recognizing this, has sent to each committeeman an outline of what each committee is to do. With this outline went a letter in which the following paragraph appears:

"Please be assured that it is the purpose of your organization to do real active, constructive work the coming year, therefore, it is essential that we have the man power, the wisdom and the energy of our entire membership. It is really up to the 100 members of committees to put over the program as outlined in the enclosed summaries."

The importance of committee work in any community organization or project cannot be over-estimated, yet it is hard to get realization of that fact into the minds of great numbers of men and women who accept appointments on committees. Too often in local organizations appointment on a committee is looked upon merely as a "fill-in" or "honorary mention" matter. An active interest in the work of a committee, promptness in attendance at its meetings—these are essential.

WAR MONUMENTS ABROAD

Gen. Pershing, as head of the American Battle Monuments Commission, is afraid Americans are going to mess Europe all up with war monuments, thus spoiling good scenery and getting their country in bad with the natives.

He finds that France, Belgium and Italy are erecting very few such monuments, while Americans are evidently planning to flood those countries with them.

Gen. Pershing fears that many of the proposed monuments would "exceed the bounds of good taste." Some that have been erected over here give ground for such fear. There is special risk of offending taste in the delicate business of setting up any monument to our own exploits or losses in a foreign country whose losses were much greater than ours.

The commission has authority to pass judgment on the proposed American memorials, and the French and Belgian governments have agreed not to permit any not approved by the commission. This arrangement, authorized by President Coolidge, may serve the purpose. It will help all around if American states, cities and private organizations will go slower in planning foreign monuments, and remember that none will be approved that are not of such a nature as to be regarded as "public improvements" or of practical use to the inhabitants.

THE RIGHT TO ONE'S FACE

Civilization, it has often been said, is based on property. However that may be, certainly new and strange forms of property develop with the progress of civilization. Here is a prominent actress bringing suit against a perfumery importer for using her picture for advertising purposes, on the ground that her face is her fortune, and the offending company is stealing her property.

Her livelihood, the plaintiff declares, is won by exhibiting her face to the public. So whoever exhibits her face for business purposes without her consent robs her of her living. She asks $100,000, of which $50,000 is for "actual damages," $25,000 for "exemplary damages," and $25,000 for violation of her "rights to privacy." The last item is hardest to understand. "Privacy" in an actress's face? According to her own plea, it seems more like a commodity vendible by a public service personality, if you get what we mean.

Some actresses are glad to have their faces broadcast as widely as possible, for advertising purposes. But probably they have a right to stop unauthorized use of the privilege. Why shouldn't they have a genuine property right to their faces, when they spend so much time, care and money making up the afore-said faces?

LIBERTY AND ANNEXATION

The magazine "Liberty" seems to have joined the jingoes who want to grab Mexico. Which is a curious state of mind for a magazine with a name like that.

"Liberty's" argument is that it would benefit the Mexicans as well as ourselves to be under the Stars and Stripes. Nobody would lose but the Mexican government. Economic progress demands it, for the benefit of both nations. Mexicans would get the benefit of our political efficiency and we would get the benefit of Mexico's oil and other natural resources.

Which might not be so bad, if the Mexicans themselves were disposed to trade political freedom for economic prosperity. As matters stand, "Liberty" and other American organs and interests that have long coveted Mexico will probably have to worry along without her, except for such part of her wealth as they can acquire by the more or less honest methods of peaceful trade. It isn't likely that our people, after finishing a "war for democracy," will plunge into a war for oil.

BUSINESS WITH RUSSIA

Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissar of foreign affairs at Moscow, thinks friendly relations may be patched up with the United States. Reports from America, he tells his red brethren, "point to a new trend of responsible business circles respecting Soviet Russia."

This may be true. There is an unexpected amount of friendliness for the Russian Soviet government shown by American business men. Much as they deplore Communism, they are eager to sell anything to the Communists that the latter can pay for.

With the American government, Litvinoff admits, there are still difficulties. But governmental approval, he intimates, hangs more on finances than political principles. Official recognition, he thinks, can be obtained if Soviet Russia will agree to pay the debts of the Kerensky regime. And his government might do that.

Only—and here is the Bolshevik joker—America would have to consider "the principle of Russian counter claims." That is to say, if the Soviet gentlemen paid us back what we lent Kerensky's republic before they overthrew it, we would be expected to pay damages for helping Kerensky.

The upshot would be that we owed Russia recognition and Russia owed us nothing.

Inyo County's Situation

Redlands Facts

The editor of The Facts has just returned from a short trip into Inyo county, going as far north as Bishop, which is some 275 miles from Los Angeles.

Of course, the first thing the average reader will want to know, and that kind of average readers peruse this column, is, "How's the fishin'?" Well, much to the sorrow of the writer, the fishin' season was not open at the time of the visit, but the roads are much better than they have ever been before, due to the considerable activity of the State Highway Commission in those parts, the streams are full of water and speckled trout. It promises to be a great fishing season, and anyone who can take the time to go that far for his outing will undoubtedly be rewarded—if he knows the game and the country.

But what The Facts man wants to write at this time is that Inyo county, in which lies the Owens river valley, is bearing up bravely, although the hearts of many of the people there must be breaking, over the destruction of their beautiful country by Los Angeles in taking the water out of the county. Farms are dried up, dwellings are deserted, abandoned hay wagons stand in the barnyards, fences are falling down. The most spectacular thing of it all, in this "return to the desert," is the long lines of dead and dying poplar trees. These trees have been one of the landmarks of the fertile sections, or watered sections, rather, of Inyo county. They bordered the streams, large and small, and with the green alfalfa fields and grazing meadows made a rural scene of rare beauty. Imagine what they look like, if you can, with the tall, slender trees, shorn of their greenery, reaching into the sky, and seeming to offer a supplication for the life giving water.

The people of Inyo are reaching out toward two possible solutions of their trouble. One is the great reparations suit which is to be brought against Los Angeles City. Those who have suffered through the destruction of property, the depreciation of values, not compensated, are planning an action to recover. Senator J. M. Inman of Sacramento, well known and aggressive attorney, and himself a native of the county, will prosecute the case.

The other hope that springs eternal is that the City of Los Angeles, which long ago should have done so, will proceed with the storage of water, instead of following the program of just taking what is available as time goes by. Auditor Kendrick of the county, by education an engineer, suggests that with remarkably small investment, the many lakes in the mountains above the valley, could have their outlets dammed and the storage capacity doubled or trebled in most cases. Then there is the great storage possibility up in Long valley, at the head of the Owens river. It could be done and it should be done.

One cannot but admire the strong-hearted, sturdy people of Inyo county, upon whom a great trouble has been visited, for their patience and their courage.

Rain Prospects in May

Riverside Press

The month of May is outside the rainy season period in California but quite heavy rains have occasionally fallen during that month as the following record for Riverside will indicate. The phenomenonally heavy rains in April suggest an extension of the rainy season to a later period than usual; and it is not unlikely that May might bring an inch of rain which would swell the season's total to 15 inches.

The following record of the May rainfall in Riverside for 45 years will be found of interest:

DO NOT ATTEMPT TOO MUCH

Riding on horseback is a good form of exercise and is especially beneficial in stimulating the gastrointestinal tract. The rhythmic vibration seems to be of benefit to muscles and internal organs.

Swimming is also a good exercise. It brings into play nearly all of the muscles of the body. A temperature below 65 degrees Fahrenheit is usually too cold for swimming. One should swim easily and slowly and breathe regularly.

The breast stroke or a slow trudgion are good strokes to use. The crawl stroke, while it is perhaps best for speed swimming, cannot usually be maintained with ease for any length of time, except by trained athletes.

Half an hour is quite long enough to remain in the water and one should not stand around in his wet bathing suit and get chilled but should dress immediately after coming out of the water.

There are many outdoor sports which can be indulged in as recreation and used as exercise. Golf, tennis and handball are familiar and popular games. One can get much or little exercise from golf, according to the rapidly with which he covers the course and the number of holes that are played.

Tennis and handball are much more vigorous games. For the average man, three sets of singles in tennis or three games of handball are generally sufficient exercise if taken daily. After 45 years of age, the average man should not play singles in tennis or handball. Doubles, however, can be indulged in up to very much later in life.

One should differentiate between the foregoing and similar games when employed as a healthful exercise and when played in sharp competition. Do not attempt too much.

Serenity of Mind Robs Even Death of its Sting

San Francisco Chronicle

If you knew that you were surely to die in a month from now, what effect would this certain knowledge have on your cast of thought?

A very noble answer shines out of the death in this city of a well-known physician, who had won considerable fame in the field of preventive medicine. He suffered from a disease for which he knew there was no cure. He could count his remaining days. And yet his mind was serene. He could discuss his plight without bitterness; no note of regret escaped his lips. Death was a fact he had been in contact with throughout his professional career. Now it was merely his turn.

Religion has an explanation for such serenity of mind in the face of death, with its comforting conviction that death is but the beginning of an adventure more wonderful than the mind of man can conceive. Men of a pagan turn have found consolation in philosophical musings, while even those without belief in a life eternal have converted their very skepticism into a source of resignation.

We do not know from which of these springs this physician drew that peace of mind that was so remarkable to his friends. In the gathering darkness his courage never faltered. The weeks that he knew were to end his life found him as serene as in the most hopeful years of his fine achievements. It is something to have walked with this physician, at the end of his journey, and to have learned that, to the noble mind, death has no terrors.

Worth While Verse

COMFORT

Say! You've struck a heap of trouble—
Bust in business, lost your wife;
No one cares a cent about you,
You don't care a cent for life;
Hard luck has of hope bereft you,
Health is failing, wish you'd die—
Why, you've still the sunshine left you,
And the big, blue sky.

Sky so blue it makes you wonder
If it's heaven shining through;
Earth so smiling 'way out yonder,
Sun so bright it dazzles you;
Birds a-singing, flowers a-flinging
All their fragrance on the breeze;
Dancing shadows, green, still meadows—
Don't you mope, you've still got these.

These, and none can take them from you;
These, and none can weigh their worth.
What! you're tired and broke and beaten?—
Why, you're rich—you've got the earth!
Yes, if you're a tramp in tatters,
While the blue sky bends above,
You've got all that nearly matters,
You've got God, and God is love.

—Robert W. Service.

Time To Smile

TIMELY WARNING

"The storm burst so suddenly upon us that we had no warning of its approach," remarked the victim of a violent tornado, to a group of interested friends.

"In an instant," he continued, "the house was demolished and scattered to the four winds of heaven. How I escaped being torn to pieces I do not know!—We—"

"G-good gracious!" exclaimed Mr. Meke, jumping to his feet. "That reminds me; I—I almost forgot to post a letter to my wife!"—Answers, London.

HEALTH

Your health is the most important thing you have, and if you lose it its the most important thing you haven't got. Its better to be poor and have perfect health; all over your body than to be rich and have panes in the back all the time, altho the many poor people would be willing to swap and try panes in the back just for a change.

On the other hand if you are poor and have panes at the same time, it wouldn't be any more trouble if you was rich and having them. Proving as long as you have to be uncomfortable you mite as well be as comfortable as you can.

Sick people are jellish of well people, but well people dont go around looking stuck up just on that account, even when they go pass a hospital. People with square white teeth have more cause to smile in public than people with funny looking teeth, but on the other hand a tooth ache is a better subject of conversation than a perfect tooth even if its rite in front.

The first thing you do when you have a stummick ache is to complain about it, but you wouldn't think of going around bragging about how good your stummick feels when it feels natural. Proving bad news travel quickest.

When you feel sick you keep on wishing you was better, but when nothing is the matter with you you hardly ever take time to feel glad you aint sick. Proving most people are ungratefull even to themselves.

It sounds worse to say a persin is sick in bed than wat it does to jest say they are sick, and it sounds even worse to say they are sick in bed with a doctor, and it sounds the worse of all to say they are sick in bed with a doctor and a nurse.

A lot can happen to you without axually making you sick, such as breaking your leg, being a lucky thing on account of a broken leg being trouble enuff as it is.

Conserve Flood Waters of the Santa Ana River

Letters continue to come to the Register commending it for trying to awaken the people of Orange county, AND URGING IT TO KEEP THEM AWAKE, to the vital importance of conserving the flood waters of the Santa Ana river.

Two of these letters came from men of excellent intelligence and wide business experience, both large property owners in Orange county—one from George E. Marcy, of Chicago, owner of the magnificent country estate and citrus groves known as Marcy Heights, and the other from Wyckoff Hoxie, a Tustin orange grower, who is now in New York.

Mr. Marcy's Letter
Chicago, April 28, 1926.
Santa Ana Register, Santa Ana, Calif.

Gentlemen: Just recently copies of your editorial of April 7th, "Shame of Orange County," and editorial of April 14th, came into my hands.

You cannot be complimented too much for taking hold of this matter. I sincerely hope you will keep at it until you cause proper committees to be formed which will go into the matter very thoroughly and, if these committees are formed, I hope you will keep after them until they function.

The whole situation is so serious that, in my opinion, not a day should be lost.

Sincerely yours,
GEO. E. MARCY.

Mr. Hoxie's Letter
New York, N. Y., April 13, 1926.
Dear Mr. Baumgartner: I have just read in the April 7th issue of the Register your strong editorial entitled "The Shame of Orange County," and wish to commend it most highly.

The need for water conservation in our county is, without doubt, the one all-important question to which all other undertakings should be subordinated.

The old saying is, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry," but the greenest of "tenderfeet" should be able to recognize that the surplus waters stored underground in years past are being rapidly pumped out, and that under present conditions much of the excess rainfall which might be conserved for dry years is lost by run-off into the ocean.
